REDUCE WORK HOURS, PRESIDENT ASKS

Dillinger Remains Free As Widespread Hunt Is Pressed

NEW DEAL HERE TO STAY SAYS MR. ROOSEVELT

Asks U. S. Industry for "Immediate Co-operation to Secure Increase in Wages and Shortening of Hours"—Calls for Greater Protection of Small Business.

WASHINGTON, March 5—(AP) — President Roosevelt asked American industry today for "immediate co-operation to secure increase in wages and shortening of hours."

"It is the immediate task of industry to re-employ more people at purchasing wages and to do it now," he declared.

Speaking to the several thousand members of NRA's code authorities, assembled in Constitution hall for a three-day review of the industrial control program, he warned that "the government cannot forever continue to absorb the whole burden of unemployment."

He called for greater protection of small business, terming the code authority "the keeper of your small industrial brother."

He said the anti-trust laws "must continue in their major purpose of retaining competition and preventing monopoly."

He demanded that "every corporation in the United States" give its workers free choice to organize themselves and emphasized that "those two words 'free choice' mean just what they say."

Promises Action.

Saying he knew industry with few exceptions would give wholehearted compliance, the president warned that in these exceptions "the government itself must and will under the law move firmly and promptly to prevent failure."

He contended that industry must keep to "the lowest schedule of prices on which higher wages and increasing employment can be maintained."

For the future, he said, "the methods and details of x x x reorganizing may and will change from year to year but x x x the reorganization must be permanent for all the rest of our lives in that never again will we permit the social conditions which allowed the vast sections of our population to exist in an un-American way, which allowed a maldistribution of wealth and power."

So far, he said, "we have been tolerant of certain misunderstandings even when they resulted in evasions of the spirit if not the letter of the law," but "x x x we have arrived at the time for taking stock for correcting manifest errors, for rooting out demonstrated evilsxxx."

Cannot Be Tolerated.

"We cannot tolerate actions which are clearly monopolistic, which wink at unfair trade practices, which fail to give to labor free choice of their representatives or

LARUE IS GIVEN TEN YEARS UPON FEDERAL CHARGE

Towle Cancels Trip To Seek Bank Suspect's Return Here.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 5—(AP) —Eddie La Rue, alias Doll, pleaded guilty to an automobile theft charge in Federal court today and was sentenced to ten years in Leavenworth penitentiary.

The maximum sentence was pronounced less than an hour after the gangster was brought to Springfield, under a heavy guard, from St. Petersburg, Fla., where he was arrested three weeks ago.

Towle Cancels Trip.

County Attorney Max Towle, who planned to leave Monday evening for Springfield, Ill., to seek LaRue's return here to face charges in connection with the robbery of Lincoln National Bank and Trust Co., cancelled the trip when he heard of LaRue's sentence. "There would be no use of my going now," he said. However we will ask for La Rue's return here when his sentence expires.

Crop Loans Fund Adopted by House

WASHINGTON, March 5—(AP)—The house today adopted a special resolution appropriating $40,000,000 for crop production loans. The measure now goes to the senate, where similar approval is expected soon.

MORGAN FIRM IN SPOTLIGHT AGAIN

Probers Seek Evidence of Leak on Air Mail Cancellation.

WASHINGTON, March 5—(AP)—Searching for evidence of a "leak" on cancellation of the air mail contracts, the senate banking committee found today that J. P. Morgan & Co., sold a big block of 4,500 shares of United Aircraft stock shortly before annulment of the contracts.

The Morgan firm was named on a list of almost 500 long and short sellers of air company stocks during the two weeks period just before the contracts were cancelled.

The Morgan stock was sold through Richard Whitney & Co. This firm is headed by Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, who submitted the names to the committee in response to a subpoena.

Reichenbach, Mellor Claim Damage Suit Prematurely Brought

John A. Reichenbach and William R. Mellor ask, in answers filed in District court Monday, that action on an $11,700 damage suit brought by Grace Oncken against Reichenbach, Mellor and Carl C. Carlsen be delayed until it can be determined whether there will be a deficiency judgment under mortgage bonds on which the plaintiff is basing her suit.

Allegation is made in the answers that the defendants have obtained leave of the trustee in bankruptcy of the Lincoln Trust Co. to foreclose the mortgage given to secure the bonds. Sale has not yet been made and there is no manner in which alleged damages of the plaintiff can be ascertained at this time, it is claimed. The court is asked to find that the suit was prematurely brought, and to delay action until foreclosure proceedings have been completed in order that the amount of the deficiency, if any, may be determined.

The action is based on bonds put out by the trust company under what was known as the "Thomas J. McLoughlin issue."

First Driver Fined For Lack '34 Plates

The first fine for driving without 1934 license plates in Lincoln, was assessed upon John Loos, 734 Vine street, Monday morning in Municipal court. Loos told the court he couldn't pay the fine of $1 and costs.

DAMAGE IN GAS PLANT FIRE $500

Distillate Ignited In Test of Artificial Fuel System.

Fire on the second floor of the Iowa-Nebraska Light and Power Co. gas plant at Second and N streets shortly before noon Monday caused about $500 damage, John Olson, superintendent, estimated. Distillate used in manufacturing gas sprayed through a broken casting upon hot pipes, Olson said.

The artificial gas plant is not in operation, but one of the periodic tests of its condition was being made. About 75 window panes were cracked by the heat and an instrument panel was damaged somewhat before the blaze was extinguished. Six fire trucks answered the alarm.

The artificial gas plant is maintained for emergency use in case anything should happen to the natural gas supply.

RIGHT OF STATE TO FIX PRICE OF MILK IS UPHELD

Supreme Court Sustains New York Control Legislation, 5 to 4.

LAW ENACTED TO CORRECT ABUSES

Ruling Has Important Bearing On Validity of NRA Legislation.

WASHINGTON, March 5—(AP)—In a decision having an important bearing on the validity of recovery legislation, the supreme court today upheld the right of a state to fix a minimum price for milk. The decision was 5 to 4.

It sustained the New York milk control law under which the minimum price was set at 9 cents a quart in an effort to promote the return of prosperity. Justice Owen J. Roberts delivered the opinion.

Justice Roberts reviewed the decline in milk prices below production cost. Emphasizing the importance of the industry, he said it represented more than $1,000,000,000 investment. After summarizing the need of maintaining the milk supply, he said small dealers were able to cut prices below large producers.

Law Enacted to Correct Abuses.

The law was enacted to correct evils which would not be eliminated by the operation of supply and demand, he said.

The agricultural adjustment act gave the secretary of agriculture power to fix the price of milk in various milk sheds and he has done so in a number of instances.

The attack on the law was based on the contention that the exercise of police powers by the states was subject to the federal constitution and that such powers were not superior to rights guaranteed by the

MILLER BEATEN BY TWO POSING AS U. S. AGENTS

Police Believe Robbery Motive Of Attack On Man In His Home.

Posing as "federal agents" two young, well-dressed bandits gained entrance to the home of Charles Miller, 50, 1745 North Twenty-ninth street shortly after 9 o'clock Sunday evening, beat him severely over the head with gun butts and then fled after Miller wrenched himself away and ran next door to the home of George Heaton. Police said they believed robbery was the motive of the attack. No trace of the men had been found Monday morning.

According to the story which Miller told police officers, the two men rapped loudly on his door, proclaiming that they wanted to search his house for a still. He said he protested that there was no liquor there but that they entered. After covering him with guns they came over to the bed where he was sitting. One of them

BRYAN MEMORIAL CLUB IS ARRANGING BIRTHDAY DINNER

A new organization in Lincoln to be known as the Bryan Memorial club is being formed by personal admirers of the late William Jennings Bryan to arrange for a banquet on March 19, his birthday anniversary.

Among its membership are a number of men and women identified with the administration of Governor Charles W. Bryan, the Commoners' brother.

Republicans as well as democrats will be welcomed into the club, its sponsors declare. The purpose is to secure a speaker of national prominence for the dinner.

Thomas Is Officer Production Credit

Lincoln Man Secretary-Treasurer Association With Headquarters South Omaha.

OMAHA, March 5—(AP)—Appointment of George J. Thomas of Lincoln as secretary-treasurer of the South Omaha Production Credit association, covering Douglas, Sarpy, Saunders, Cass, Dodge, Washington and Burt counties, was announced today. Loaning activities in this state probably will not start until April, it was explained.

Mr. Thomas, who lives at 5343 Huntington avenue, has been with the Regional Agricultural Credit association for the past two years.

Sevek Brothers To Hospital At Same Time for Operations

Suffering from acute attacks of appendicitis, Allen and Louis Sevek, brothers living at Sterling, appeared simultaneously at St. Elizabeth's hospital Monday morning for operations. According to Dr. T. F. McCarthy, who performed the operations, the men were taken ill Sunday evening.

New Field Manager of Press Association

Vernon T. Sanford, new field manager of the Nebraska Press association, arrived in Lincoln Monday morning to begin work on the 1934 program for member newspapers.

V. T. Sanford.

Thursday, Sanford will confer with Parke Keays, his predecessor, and Doyle Buckles, of Fairbury, president of the association. They will discuss application of the graphic arts code, which governs most of the newspapers in the association, and political advertising in the coming campaigns.

The new field manager is 29 years old, is married and has two children. They will make their home here. Mr. Sanford has been advertising manager of the Andarko, Okla., Daily News for the past seven months.

SAMUEL INSULL TOLD TO LEAVE GREECE AT ONCE

Foreign Minister Orders Immediate Expulsion of Chicagoan.

GIVEN 48 HOURS.

ATHENS, March 5—(AP)—"If Samuel Insull does not go I will put him on an American-bound vessel," declared John Metaxas, the minister of the interior, tonight as he signed an order under which the former Chicago utilities operator must quit Greece within 48 hours.

The minister's ruling means that Insull must depart tomorrow or Wednesday.

ATHENS, March 5—(AP)—The foreign minister telephoned the American minister to inform Washington today that he had ordered the immediate expulsion of Samuel Insull.

The minister of the interior, the American embassy was informed, was directed to see that the former American utilities operator left Greece and his expulsion was expected at once.

Thus, the Greek intention in regard to Insull—wanted in Chicago to face charges growing out of the collapse of his enterprises—officially was declared.

"I'll Go Home And Die."

An order for his expulsion was ordered Saturday, but just how or when it was to have taken effect remained in doubt until the foreign minister's announcement.

Earlier Insull was described as unwilling to prolong his fight to remain in his Athenian retreat.

A friend said that Insull had commented, "I am old and sick. I will go home and die."

There were no signs around the Insull apartment that preparations were being made for a departure. Insull has not applied for either a Greek travel permit or a new American passport.

$125,000 Verdict To Princess Who Sued Film Firm

LONDON, March 5—(AP)—The jury in the libel suit of Princess Irena Youssoupoff today awarded her 25,000 pounds—$125,000—against Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Ltd., makers of the film "Rasputin and the Empress." She sued for $2,000,000.

The award was made after a dramatic trial in which Prince Youssoupoff testified he was one of the group who killed the mad monk of Russia, the slaying pictured in the film.

Princess Irena testified the character Natasha, in the picture, was a libel of herself.

Distress Calls are Heard From British Steamer in North Atlantic.

HALIFAX, N. S., March 5—(AP)—Distress calls from the British steamship Concordia, reporting she had collided with another vessel this afternoon, were received by the Canadian government marine station today.

The Concordia gave her position as 43 degrees, 11 minutes north latitude, 59 degrees 11 minutes west longitude, approximately 40 miles southeast of Sable island.

The distress message gave no details.

SERIOUS FLOODS THREATENED IN EAST AND SOUTH

Melting Snows Swell Rivers; Endanger Lowland Homes.

SEVERAL TOWNS IN N. Y. ARE ISOLATED

Cumberland Is Running Over 40-Foot Level At Nashville.

(By the Associated Press)

Roaring streams threatened serious floods in the east today. Snowdrifts, melted by rain and climbing temperatures, swelled rivers to the danger point.

Two hundred families at Waterford, N. Y., hastily packed their household goods to move to higher ground as the turbulent Mohawk river poured a huge volume of water into the Hudson. The town is at the confluence of the two streams.

Moosick Falls, N. Y., rushed work on a new steel bridge. The structure, two thirds complete, is endangered by rising waters. Automobiles were smashed at Wassaic, N. Y., as an ice jam in Turkey Hollow brook broke and smashed down on the village.

Village Isolated.

Chenango Bridge, a little town near Binghamton, N. Y., was cut off by flood waters and plunged into darkness last night by falling electric light poles. Delancey, N. Y., and other villages also were isolated and Bainbridge was without power.

Water stood a foot deep in some streets of Kingston, N. Y., as in some sections of Queens, New York city. Many highways were flooded.

The Monongahela, which joins with the Allegheny at Pittsburgh to form the Ohio river, was a rushing yellow sea. Water crept toward the flood stage. Thirty barges broke away from a dock near Uniontown, Pa., and one smashed over a dam. Floods also threatened Wheeling, W. Va.

Cumberland River Threatens.

In the south the Cumberland river at Nashville, Tenn., was above flood stage and threatened to inundate homes of 200 families. The river passed the 40-foot flood stage this week-end and a possible 45-foot crest was predicted by Wednesday or Thursday.

Rivers in Alabama and Georgia were out of their banks but observers said the waters probably would not rise high enough to cause damage.

RITES TUESDAY FOR E. W. BROWN

Funeral Services To Be Held At Trinity M. E. Church.

Funeral services for Elmer W. Brown, for 40 years a lawyer in Lincoln, who died Saturday, will be held at Trinity Methodist church, Sixteenth and A streets, at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, with Rev. E. D.

ELMER W. BROWN.

Hull of Waterloo, Ia., officiating and Rev. P. H. Murdick assisting.

The body will lie in state at the church from 1 o'clock until 2 o'clock. The casket will not be opened after the services.

Mrs. Lenore Burkett Van Kirk and the Eastern Star quartet, composed of Mrs. E. B. Baer, Mrs. Clyde Boyles, Mrs. Orville Andrews and Mrs. Louise Mitchell, will sing.

Pallbearers will be M. C. Lefler, Dr. E. B. Brooks, Ralph P. Wilson, Walter F. Wilson, Rolla C. Van Kirk, and E. F. Snavely. Lincoln lodge No. 19, A. F. & A. M., will be in charge at the grave. Knights Templar will act as escort. The body is at Castle, Roper & Matthews mortuary. Interment at Wyuka cemetery.

Mr. Brown, a former legislator in 1907 and 1909, was a member of the law firm of Burkett, Wilson, Brown and Van Kirk.

He is survived by his wife, Mary; his mother, Mrs. Caroline Brown of Lincoln; two sons, Glenn D. Brown and Burkett Brown both of Lincoln; a daughter, Mrs. Frank L. Jones of Denver; a brother, Ira Brown of Chicago; and three grandchildren, Robert E. Jones, Carolyn E. Jones and Leslie Jean Brown.

Senator Wagner Says Code Wages Must Be Revised

Labor Board Chairman Feels Some Minimum Levels Too Low.

WASHINGTON, March 5—(AP)—Senator Wagner, chairman of the national labor board, this afternoon told the NRA code authority conference "it is essential that most code wages be revised."

Some of the minimum levels prescribed are too low, actually lower in many cases than the wages industries had been paying, he asserted, adding that in many cases there had been no increases to compensate for the reduction in hours worked.

The latter condition he termed a serious evil, such as can invalidate the attempts for prosperity.

Wagner said that even when wages reach a volume sufficient to produce a market that will keep factories open, increases must not stop but efforts should be made to provide comfortable living and an equitable share in the national wealth to all workers.

"The same applies to hours," he said. "Even the average of hours established under codes is not high enough to provide for the 10,000,000 still unemployed."

He was introduced to the audience by Hugh S. Johnson in a brief talk which denied all published reports of friction or conflict between the two and between NRA and the national labor board which they head.

DR. WYNEKOOP'S MURDER TRIAL IS NEARING A CLOSE

Woman Accused Killing Daughter-in-Law Collapses in Jail.

CRIMINAL COURTS BUILDING, Chicago, March 5—(AP)—Only one witness remained today to be heard in the trial of Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, charged with the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta.

At noon Judge Harry B. Miller informed the jurors that final arguments would begin after the testimony of Stanley Young, companion of Earle Wynekoop, husband of the slain girl, had been heard.

The state announced it wanted to call Young to establish an alibi for Earle, by showing that he was far from the scene at the time.

Faints and Falls.

The 63-year-old defendant reclined in her wheel chair. She appeared weaker than at any time during the trial, and nursed a bruise on her left cheek, suffered when she fainted and fell to the concrete floor of the county jail early this morning.

"Her condition is very, very serious," said Dr. Frank McNamara, the Cook county jail physician.

Asked if there was danger of sudden death, he said "there is."

"There is no fake about her condition. It's serious."

The defense rested its case at 11 o'clock after a brief appearance of Dr. Wynekoop and her son, Walker, on the witness stand. The defendant, weak and white after a night of illness at the county jail, testified in a low and trembling voice.

Man Says He "Held Bottle For Friend"; Judge To Investigate

A plea of guilty "to whatever was in the bottle," was entered in Municipal court by William Randall, a guest of the City mission, Monday morning. Randall said he was standing on a downtown street when an acquaintance handed him a bottle, saying, "Take this, Officer Schappaugh is coming."

Without noticing what was in the bottle, Randall said, he followed the suggestion and was putting the bottle in his pocket when the officer arrived. Randall told the court he did not know what was in the container. Judge John Polk continued the case until Tuesday in order to hear the situation explained by the officer who arrested Randall.

CROWN POINT, Ind., March 5 — (AP) — Evidence that John Dillinger had been in frequent communication with members of his outlaw gang while confined in the Lake county jail was uncovered today as five investigators went forward into his amazing escape from the jail with a wooden pistol last Saturday.

Jail attaches identified pictures of Elaine Burton, sweetheart of John Hamilton, as a woman who posed as Dillinger's wife and visited him several times in his cell. Hamilton is the only leader in Dillinger's notorious band who has not been captured.

She visited Dillinger a number of times, jail officials said, and sometimes talked with him outside the presence of guards. They said her last visit was last Thursday—two days before Dillinger's escape.

CHICAGO, March 5— (AP) —John Dillinger remained free today, hunted in half a dozen states, while three vigorous investigations got under way to fix responsibility for his brazen break last Saturday from the Crown Point, Ind., "escape proof" jail.

The slippery desperado, who surprised everyone, especially his woman custodian—Sheriff Lillian Holley—by bluffing his way to freedom, remained a jump ahead of the law while a triple investigation was under way to determine how he managed to escape.

Rumors that a "fix" might have entered into his sensational getaway were heard. County Prosecutor Robert G. Estill of Lake County, Indiana, announced that the results of inquiry by him would be turned over to the grand jury.

A state investigation, ordered by Gov. Paul McNutt of Indiana, is also in progress, with Assistant Attorney General Edward C. Barce

Woman Sheriff Is Defiant Over Public Criticism

Mrs. Holley Crushed by Dillinger's Escape From Her Custody.

CROWN POINT, Ind., March 5—(INS)—The most talked about woman in the state of Indiana, Sheriff Lillian Holley, was today alternately crushed by the inexplicable escape of desperado John Dillinger and defiant because of the criticism being heaped upon her.

"They are criticising me because I am a woman," said the dispirited Mrs. Holley. "A man could have done no more. I have been on the job 20 hours a day every day since Dillinger came here. Twelve extra guards were added to the regular force and every possible precaution was taken to prevent escape.

"What else could we do to hold him here? The only thing we hadn't done was to handcuff him to the cell bars day and night, and one cannot do that in the Twentieth century. But don't be misled; I could kill him on sight without a moment's hesitation or compunction.

A Man's Job.

"The whole nation raises its eyes in horror and disgust at the stupidity of Lake county jail officials, but this hasn't been the first sensational jail break in recent years. Michigan City, Lima, O., Chicago, and even federal penitentiaries have had their breaks, so why blame Crown Point any more than the others.

"I realize now this is a man's job," she said, her voice breaking. "But just the same I am going to stick it out the rest of my term which ends January 1.

"It's hard to realize he's gone," said Sheriff Holley. "I just cannot believe it. It just makes me feel numb all over. I have felt sorrow in the past, but this is more than sorrow. It is deep humiliation. I feel that something has just gone out of my life."

HIT BY TRAIN, BADLY INJURED

Tilden Man Found Beside Track After Many Hours.

NORFOLK, Neb., March 5—(AP)—Arthur Moon, 29, Tilden, is in a critical condition in a Tilden hospital, to which he was taken Saturday after being found badly injured beside the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks. Little hope is held for his recovery.

Moon is believed to have been struck by a train sometime late Friday night or nearly Saturday morning. Indications are that he had been injured six or eight hours before he was found about 7 o'clock in the morning by A. L. Neely and Guy Cue, both of Tilden.

The man is suffering from a serious skull fracture, a broken leg and other injuries. The right side of his face is badly mangled, it is reported, and if he survives he will lose his right eye.

MULLEN COMES HOME.

OMAHA, March 5—(AP)—Arthur F. Mullen, democratic national committeeman for Nebraska, is expected to return to Omaha Wednesday, his office said today.

2 NAVY FLIERS FALL TO DEATH

Plane Dives Into Water Off Newport News; Pilot Was Iowan.

HAMPTON ROADS, Va., March 5—(INS)—Two navy fliers plunged to their death today when their amphibian plane nose-dived into the water off Newport News from an altitude of 1,000 feet.

The body of M. D. Marshall of Hartsville, Tenn., an aviation machinist's mate, was found strapped in the cockpit of the plane.

The body of Lieut. W. P. Davis of Des Moines, Ia., the pilot, was not immediately recovered.

Divers and coastguard cutters were ordered to search the area for the missing pilot's body.

Navy divers brought the plane to the surface a few hours after the crash.

Missouri River At Omaha Is Rapidly Nearing Flood Mark

OMAHA, March 5—(AP)—A rise to near flood stage today failed to interfere with government improvement projects on the Missouri river here. A rise of 6.6 feet, from 8.2 feet to 14.8 feet in 24 hours was recorded today by the weather bureau. The flood stage is 19 feet.

Weather bureau officials expressed belief that the crest of the high water will be reached tonight and the stream will then fall rapidly. The high water was believed to have resulted from an ice gorge north of Sioux City, which broke up yesterday.

As Rogers Sees It

SANTA MONICA, Cal., March 5 — The funniest thing I ever read about a coronation, was that one over in Manchuria. It seems that they would have had it sooner, but Japan had to wait till they could get an armoured carriage to haul him there. That shows what you call being emperor by popular demand.

Did you know that we got ten dry states, 11 partly dry and the other 27 can have anything they want, the same as these 21 do? Chili is selling nitrates. Europe is fertilizing again.

Yours, WILL.

$125,000 VERDICT TO PRINCESS WHO SUED FILM FIRM

Goldwyn-Mayer contended the character Natasha was purely fictional.

In the course of the trial Princess Irena said she intended to sue every individual theater which had shown the picture, widely used throughout the United States as well as England.

Verdict Comes Quickly.

The jury's verdict came after only a short deliberation.

Justice Avory, in summing up, said the only question was whether the jury was satisfied that the character of Natasha really represented Princess Yousoupoff and would be understood by the people who knew the princess to represent her.

"I submit," Sir William Jowitt for the defense said, "that there is nothing in this film which paints Natasha of the film as anything other than a pure, trusting, loyal and devoted woman."

"And, added to that, we all know she never met Rasputin. There is no solitary point at which the character of Natasha touches Princess Yousoupoff. . . ."

Sir Patrick Hastings for the plaintiff said he relied on two facts, first that Yousoupoff was known to everyone as the slayer of Rasputin, and second that the Princess Irena was the wife of the prince.

He coupled that with the film company's statement that this was the true story of living people and asked that the jury award heavy damages.

The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer company promised that it would make no further showings of the film.

REPORT LARGE CHURCH GAINS

Capacity Attendance On Second Sunday Of Loyalty Crusade.

Favored with sunny skies and warm weather, the second Sunday of the Loyalty campaign of Lincoln and surrounding area churches drew thousands of people to the services. It was Family day as well as a continuation of Roll Call Sunday and members of entire families were present for the morning services.

Not a few of the churches reported that the auditoriums were packed and in a number of cases extra chairs had to be used to seat the congregations. The Steele City Presbyterian church reported the greatest increase in church attendance when three times the average congregation was present.

Gains 30 To 90 Per Cent.

In Lincoln churches average gains of from 30 to 90 per cent were reported, with especial interest being shown by younger people. Sunday school attendance in most churches reached the goal set at the beginning of the campaign.

Reports of pastors of 32 churches were made Monday morning at a meeting at the Y. W. C. A. and pastors were enthusiastic over the success of the campaign. A number of surrounding towns were represented. Ministers from Pleasant Dale, Ceresco, Malcolm, Wahoo, Elmwood, Eagle, Martel, Sprague, Superior, Fairbury, Steele City, Jamaica, Waverly, Valparaiso, Utica, Tamora, Brainard, Steele City and Hebron attended.

Wyland Tells of Success.

Rev. B. F. Wyland, chairman of the ministers committee working with Dr. George W. Dowey, campaign director, said, "I'm very happy with the beginning of the campaign. Evidence is on all hands that church people are expressing loyalty to our churches. The tremendous increase in all church activities is a very hopeful sign."

The next meeting in connection with the campaign will be held Monday evening, March 12, at 7:45 o'clock in the First Christian church. At this time the pastors will meet with the Friendly visitation committees and officers and teachers of the Sunday schools.

JAIL BREAKER OUTLAW STILL ELUDES LAW

and Roy Hullett, an investigator, in charge.

Another inquiry was undertaken by Judge William J. Murray before whom Dillinger was to have been tried for slaying Policeman Patrick O'Malley in an East Chicago, Ind., bank holdup.

May Demand Resignation.

The Lake county board of commissioners was called to meet in special session today to consider the escape. Reports were current that Sheriff Holley's resignation would be demanded. She has said, however, that she will not quit.

In Ohio, where Dillinger's men liberated the gang leader from the Lima jail last October, killing Sheriff Jess Sarber, the Indiana authorities were taken to task by Ohio's attorney general, John W. Bricker. He charged that "either cowardice, corruption of public officials or ignorance permitted Dillinger to escape."

"The Dillinger escape," he said, "is additional evidence of the fact that it is not more criminal laws that we need, but public officials possessed of the courage, character, intelligence and ability to enforce the laws."

Attorney General Philip Lutz of Indiana expressed surprise "that the Lake county officials let Dillinger get away," but Sheriff Holley, reported on the verge of a nervous breakdown, defended the dozen or more guards whom Dillinger herded into a cell with the aid of a self-carved pistol, made of a broomstick, a razor handle and two blades.

"I'd have done the same thing," she said, "if someone had put a gun at my back."

Spreads in All Directions.

The hunt for the desperado spread today in all directions. The highways of Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Missouri were carefully watched for Dillinger and his negro companion, Herbert Youngblood, who used Sheriff Holley's automobile with Indiana licenses number 679,929, with red and green headlights, to make their escape.

Another possibility for a lead in the hunt was offered by a visit of a mysterious woman to Crown Point jail about two weeks ago. She posed as Dillinger's wife. The sheriff's office there had protested that Dillinger was not married, but the visit was permitted by a judge, and lasted for half an hour. The woman was being hunted in the hope her apprehension might throw some light on the affair.

Cradle Song Less Rockers For This Lad

Mother Refuses To Let Son Sway In Passe Trundle Bed.

"THE hand that rocks the cradle—" and so forth But we've heard of a mother who refuses to rock the cradle, as she would spurn the plague.

It seems as though she is most scientific in the rearing of her young son. His toys are sterilized, he has just the proper proportions of the proper kind of food. His is the acme, as it were, of modern methods of bringing up babies.

Not so long ago the young mother and her baby went visiting. At the home where she was a guest, there was no baby bed, but there was an ancestral cradle. Of course, cradles are passe, according to the latest words of the latest lords of wisdom. So, after considerable hesitation, the young mother put books under the cradle rockers, so his honor, the baby, wouldn't even get so much as one little sway.

NEW DEAL HERE TO STAY SAYS MR. ROOSEVELT

which are otherwise hostile to public interest."

The president congratulated industry on its understanding of the recovery program's problems.

He described himself "a little amused and perhaps at times a little saddened" by writers and speakers who proclaim the administration has committed the country to communism or fascism and dictatorship.

His speech contained also one direct answer to criticism:

"There are some people, of course, who do not think things through; as, for example, the man who complained in one of yesterday morning's papers that criticism was held to be unpatriotic.

"Let me put the case so clearly that even his type will understand. If we admit that the government has a specific problem to solve and undertakes to do it in a specific way, the critic is unpatriotic who contends himself with loudly proclaiming that that way, that method is no good; that it won't work; that it is wrong to do this. This critic contributes nothing—he is not constructive; he is unpatriotic because he attempts to destroy without even suggesting a way to build up.

Welcomes Suggestions.

"On the other hand the critic is patriotic whether he be a business man, a worker, a farmer or a politician if he says, 'I don't like the methods you are using to solve the problem; I believe it would be far better if we were to use the following alternate method,' and thereupon outlines for the benefit of his neighbor and his government a helpful proposal."

Then, he added, the average American is doing splendid service by coming back at the captious critic and saying to him, 'well, old man, and what do you suggest?'"

"One thing is very certain," he declared, "we are not going back either to the old conditions or to the old methods."

Says NRA Democratic.

The president said that NRA and the entire new deal are fundamentally democratic, conceived for the greatest good of the greatest number adding:

"The real truth of the matter is that for a number of years in our country the machinery of democracy had failed to function. x x x The operations of government had fallen into the hands of special groups. Some of them vociferously lead by people who undertook to obtain special advantages for special classes x x x."

Mr. Roosevelt said the great majority of complaints assembled by NRA was not directed against the act or the codes "but at errors and omissions in what has been done under codes."

In conclusion, the president told of a telegram from Francis M. Law, president of the American Bankers association, which said the national banking structure was "sound and liquid." There is a definite call, said the message, "for a most sympathetic attitude toward legitimate credit."

Departs From Text.

Thereupon, Mr. Roosevelt departed from his prepared text to say:

"If the banks come along, my friends, we'll have the three great elements in American life working together, industry, agriculture and banks, and then we can't stop."

The president was vigorously applauded at this point, as he had been repeatedly.

Because the number of industrialists attending was so huge that two overflow halls had been pressed into service, the chief executive accompanied by Hugh S. Johnson went from Constitution hall to the other gathering to speak a word directly to those who had heard his address only through amplifiers.

"I am glad to greet you," the president said to his second audience.

He added that he did not know whether his listeners had heard his address in the main assembly room, "but I'll tell you a secret. It is the longest speech I have made in all the past year. I said what I believe."

He expressed the belief that "these meetings in Washington where we can be frank and call each other by right names" would do much toward aiding recovery.

UNI. PLACE MOVIE ACT INTRODUCED

nents and objectors have had an opportunity to express their views. A referendum as requested by three University Place churches, is illegal, Max Kier, city attorney, said.

Plans and specifications for the construction of a water main in A street, from the pumping plant to Thirty-third street and north to W street, were approved, and the clerk was directed to advertise for bids. The engineer's estimate of cost was $54,000. The project is the fourth planned under the provisions of a PWA loan and grant of $216,000. The bonds covering the loan of $175,000 will be issued under an ordinance passed on third readings.

An ordinance increasing tennis fees on a number of the municipal courts was read three times and passed, at the request of L. C. Oberlies, head of the park department. Fifteen days will elapse before the measure becomes effective. The new hourly prices:

Twenty-eighth and A streets—15 cents except on Saturdays, Sunday and holidays, when it will be 25 cents.

Twenty-second and M. Sixth and F. Peter Pan and Tenth and Van Dorn streets—15 cents Saturdays, Sundays and holidays; 10 cents other days. The two east courts at P streets and Van Dorn park will be free from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. The courts at Havelock and Pentzer park will be free at all times.

Gasoline tax amounting to $1,873,873.87 was ordered paid to the state on sales of 25,679 gallons in February by the municipal filling station. Of the total $102.92 on sales to city departments was ordered paid under protest. The balance on hand March 1 was shown as $37,285.34, compared with $39,327.08 on February 1.

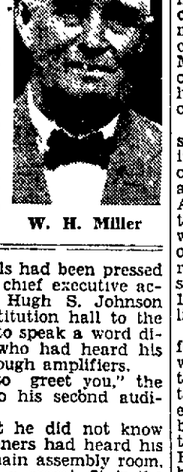

The balance on hand in the coal fund March 1, was $2,976.87, an increase over February 1. Sales during February amounted to $3,631.32 for 417 tons.

The 1934-35 contract between the city and Frank Mulqueeny, municipal golf pro, was held up until next Monday. He is to receive $75 a month for twelve months, in addition to golf concessions at Antelope and Pioneers parks.

Thirty more shops weer licensed for brake and light testing under the new traffic ordinance. A total of 49 places are now authorized to make official inspections. One out-of-town garage owner inquired Monday whether he is eligible to make such tests for Lincoln car owners, was informed that he can obtain a license if he meets the requirements.

William Miller Rites To Be Held Tuesday

Funeral services for William H. Miller, 67, for 28 years an employe of the Iowa-Nebraska Light and Power company, who died Saturday evening, will be held at Wadlow's chapel at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Rev. Frank Mills and Rev. Fred Anderson will officiate. Jacob Lebsack will sing and interment will be at Lincoln Memorial park. Mr. Miller had been retired for the past two years.

LACY HEARING APRIL 17.

CHICAGO, March 5—(AP)—Unable to supply $25,000 bond, James Lacy was sent back to his county jail cell today to await a hearing in felony court April 17 on the charge that he attempted to kidnap Emanuel P. Adler of Davenport, Ia., newspaper publisher and banker.

PORTER FILES FOR GOVERNOR

Third Demo Enters Race; Was Secretary State From 1897-1900.

Third man to cast his headgear into the gubernatorial circle as a candidate in the democratic primary is William F. Porter of Lincoln, whose filing was completed Monday forenoon in the secretary of state's office after he had paid his $10 fee to the treasurer of Lancaster county.

Porter, who served two terms as secretary of state from 1897 to 1900, inclusive, but has held no public office since, got his start in politics as a member of the old Farmers' Alliance, which he joined at the time of its organization in 1888. He was elected twice to the legislature on the populist ticket as state representative from Merrick county, serving in the turbulent sessions of 1891 and 1893. At that time he was living on a farm near Clarks.

In 1896, the year of W. J. Bryan's first presidential candidacy, Porter was elected secretary of state on the fusion populist-democratic ticket, and two years later was reelected by the same political combination. He held office the first two years under Governor Silas A. Holcomb, and in the succeeding biennium was associated with Governor William A. Poynter, both populists.

When the populist, or "people's independent", party went into eclipse some 2 5years ago, Porter became affiliated with the democratic party. Two or three years ago he was employed as a highway and gravel inspector under the Bryan administration. In 1932 he ran for lieutenant governor in the democratic primary, but lost to Walter Jurgensen.

Continue CWA Work In Drouth Region Of State; President's Program Given Words Of Approval

RANDALL BIART TELLS OF PLAN

Says Employment Must Be Found For Thousands of Men.

OMAHA, March 5—(AP)—Randall Biart, state relief director, said here today that the CWA system is not to be discontinued in the drouth relief district of northeastern Nebraska, despite an announcement from St. Paul yesterday following a conference of relief directors from six northcentral states.

Biart, returning to Lincoln from St. Paul meeting, said the new "homemade" relief plan, evolved at the meeting, will not be placed in effect in Nebraska.

"It's a good plan for the Dakotas and for such states as need it, but it cannot be utilized in our state," said Biart.

The CWA will be discontinued in Nebraska on May 1, as already announced, but in the Dakotas, all CWA work will cease on March 15, or even a few days earlier, Biart said.

"Work relief, not charity relief, is the problem we now face," declared Biart. "The FERA was of course an emergency relief measure, as its name implies. But emergency relief cannot continue indefinitely.

The PWA works in Nebraska will give employment to about 25,000 employes. But that still leaves about 41,000 families without work, to be cared for by charity under some name or other. Employment must be provided for those people, not charity. That is the problem we are facing today."

State Convention Of D. A. R. at Wayne Begins Wednesday

WAYNE, Neb., March 5—(AP)—About 200 delegates and visitors are expected to attend the state conference of Daughters of the American Revolution here Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Mrs. Russell W. Magna of Washington, national president general, and Mrs. William Pouch of New York, vice president general are expected to attended. Mrs. Horace J. Cary of Kearney is Nebraska regent.

FORMER NEBRASKA SHERIFF IS DEAD

ATHENS, Pa., March 5—(AP)—Robert J. Mulligan, 78, who claimed to be the oldest police chief in point of service in the United States, died Sunday. He had been chief of police of Athens for 44 consecutive years. Born in New York, Mulligan went to Nebraska as a young man and was among the first residents of Chase county. He was appointed sheriff of that county by Gov. Dawes and later was elected to the office. He came to Athens in 1889.

federal constitution against taking property without due process of law.

Leo Nebbia was arrested at Rochester, and convicted of violating the order of the milk control board fixing the minimum price.

Roberts said regulation of prices was only invalid when arbitrary, capricious and irrelevant.

Roberts was joined by Chief Justice Hughes and Justices Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo in sustaining the legislation.

Dissenting Opinion.

Justice McReynolds delivered the dissenting opinion in which Justices Van Devanter, Sutherland and Butler joined.

McReynolds said a man's private business, pursued honestly and in an ordinary way, is not "clothed with a public interest" and that a legislature therefore had no right to take control.

The milk industry is not a public utility, Roberts said, but added that business can be regulated in the interest of the public. He contended no constitutional provision prohibited a state in the exercise of its police power from regulating prices in the public interest.

Administration leaders received the decision with jubilance following their encouragement by the recent action of the high court in upholding the Minnesota mortgage moratorium act.

The Minnesota decision held that the government could suspend the provisions of a contract in an emergency. It granted an extension of time to redeem Minnesota property which had been seized under foreclosure proceedings.

SOFTLEY CANDIDATE.

FREMONT, Neb., March 5—(AP)—Because he wanted to find some means of establishing a community building here where Dodge county farmers can hold meetings, Alfred Softley, Elkhorn township farmer and president of the county farm bureau, has filed as a candidate for state representative. He said there is no adequate place here for farm meetings and if possible he wants a building erected without a bond issue, payable out of revenues from its use.

Dead Doctor Heals Stomach Ailments

A weird story is told of a well-known specialist reaching from the grave to curb stomach suffering. Years ago this doctor created a prescription for stomach ulcers, acid stomach, gas pains, heartburn, indigestion, bloating, belching, and other symptoms when caused by excess acid. Then the good doctor died. But his name brought fame after death as one user told another of his wonderful prescription. In the past six years, 54,169 grateful persons have written letters telling of their recoveries. This prescription is now known to hundreds of thousands as the Udga Treatment. All stomach sufferers may have a free sample by writing to Udga, Suite B, Foot-Schulze Bldg., St. Paul, Minn. The seven-day trial box of Udga Tablets is sold under a money-back guarantee of satisfaction by Harley Drug Co., Fenton Drug Stores, Owl Pharmacy, and other good druggists.—Advertisement.

OAKLAND PASTOR IS DECORATED BY KING OF SWEDEN

OAKLAND, Neb., March 5—(AP)—Dr. Leonard Stromberg, minister and author of Oakland, has received a gold medal decoration from the royal house of Sweden in recognition of his many works in the Swedish language. King Gustav V of Sweden, made Dr. Stromberg a member of the Royal Order of Vasa in presenting the medal, received by Dr. Stromberg through the Swedish vice consul in Omaha. More than 40 novels written by Dr. Stromberg in the Swedish language have been published. His latest work deals with the activities of Swedish pioneers in Nebraska.

STEVENS TRIAL BEGINS AT ONCE

Faces Two Murder Charges In North Platte Court.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., March 5—(AP)—The LaClede Stevens murder case will get the first call when District court starts a new term here tomorrow, but court attaches suggested selection of a jury may not get underway before Wednesday. Some even predicted it would take several days to get a jury for the trial.

Stevens faces two first degree murder charges in connection with the fatal shooting of his wife, Mrs. Frances Stevens, 30, and her father, John DeRolf, 56, city water commissioner, at the DeRolf home here January 19. The 30 year old bakery proprietor has entered pleas of not guilty.

First Year, Best Result

The Talmadge Fine Cow

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

President Roosevelt, looking back over his first year in the white house, ended last Saturday, concludes modestly that the most important event of the year is "the people's increased interest in their own government."

For a long time people in the United States have lived too much of a bovine existence, content as long as their food was brought to them at regular hours.

Events since 1929 have made citizens realize that government is important, since their welfare and happiness depend on it.

If you worry about an occasional airplane accident, and ever feel inclined to doubt the ultimate, absolute conquest of the air and of the weather conditions, stop thinking about a few rare accidents, and consider what progress flying has made within a few years.

For more than a week this writer has been trying to tell you about Mrs. Talmadge's jersey cow, and how she managed at her husband's luncheon.

Mrs. Talmadge, wife of the governor of Georgia, lives in a beautiful house high on a hill in the fashionable part of Atlanta, the house purchased by the state of Georgia, as a residence for its governors. Back of the executive mansion grass grows, and in the grass season a fine jersey cow eats it. Governor Talmadge says "God made grass for cows to eat, not for city people to chop it off with a lawn mower. Mrs. Talmadge tells you that the cow, she needs only one, in the city, produces two pounds of butter a day, and "five gallons of milk." Five gallons are twenty quarts. Not many Holsteins give more.

Mrs. Talmadge is too busy looking after guests, telephone calls, distinguished visitors to milk the jersey cow, but she has milked many a cow and hopes to milk many another.

In fact, she runs her husband's big farm in summer when he is busy as governor. He is one of the most successful farmers in the south, one reason why Georgia farmers made him governor with the cities voting against him.

The governor gave a luncheon party for a dozen men and you observed that Mrs. Talmadge seated Dr. Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe university, in the armchair facing the governor. When the other men were seated there was no chair empty. Mrs. Talmadge spent the luncheon time never sitting down, seeing that her husband's guests had what they wanted, going in and out of the kitchen. It is her opinion that "you can't sit down and attend to your husband's guests properly at the same time."

The governor, asked "do you object to my printing your wife's luncheon plan," replied "certainly not. That's what every woman ought to do."

This theory would surprise Newport, Fifth avenue or North Michigan avenue.

As the results of Mrs. Talmadge's attention, never was such tender beef "it was a young bull we butchered," said Mrs. Talmage. "About a year old and very fat."

Three whole small birds were provided for each guest, perfectly cooked and the scalloped oysters were such as never were found on land or sea, except once, long ago, in the house of James Mullins at Wooster, Ohio.

"Uh huh," replies Mrs. Talmadge. "I know how to cook all those things. But, I bring my cook up from the farm. I haven't time to cook everything here and look after all the people."

Mrs. Talmadge keeps chickens at the executive mansion. They supply her with eggs.

"Will Governor Talmarge be re-elected this fall?" Ask Mr. Anderson, owner and editor of the Telegraph, of Macon, Ga. Mr. Anderson, who fought Governor Talmadge at the last election, says that nobody else in the state could get twenty-five thousand votes against him this time.

HEART ATTACK FATAL.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., March 5—(AP)—Luther Farnsworth, 81, druggist here for more than 30 years, died yesterday as he sat in a Grand Island church awaiting the start of the morning service. Dr. Earl Farnsworth, a son, is his only survivor.

DISTRICT JUDGE BEGLEY IS DEAD

Stricken With Heart Attack At His Home In Plattsmouth.

PLATTSMOUTH, Neb., March 5—(AP)—Judge James T. Begley, 50, district judge here for 20 years and resident of Plattsmouth 19 years, died suddenly Sunday night of heart disease as he sat visiting with friends in his home.

JUDGE J. T. BEGLEY.

He had not complained of feeling ill, but for two weeks had mentioned feeling tired most of the time. Only Saturday he sentenced two Fort Crook soldiers to terms of 45 years each in the Nebraska penitentiary for attempting to rob the Plattsmouth State bank last week. These are thought to be the longest sentences ever given in this state for bank robbery.

Judge Begley was born in Springfield, Neb., and educated in the school there. He later attended the University of Nebraska and was graduated from the law college in 1906. After his graduation he established a law office in Papillion.

His first public office was county attorney of Sarpy county. Later he become judge of Sarpy county and shortly afterward began his long term as a district judge.

Judge Begley had been spending considerable time on the bench, and although not complaining, mentioned several times the need of rest. He said nothing Sunday of not feeling well, and was sitting in a chair talking to Mrs. Begley and friends.

All at once he slumped down in his chair. His companions rushed to his side, but he died in a very few minutes.

He is survived by his widow, a son and a daughter. The son is James F., student at the University of Nebraska, and the daughter is Mrs. Dales Jaquis of Alexandria.

MILLER BEATEN BY TWO POSING AS U. S. AGENTS

reached under his pillow and found a flashlight which he put in his pocket. Then both began beating him.

When Miller managed to jerk away and get outside, one of the men ran to the door and fired a shot. Then the pair went to the alley where their light coupe was parked, drove north to Fair street and then turned east.

Miller was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital by a police cruiser. Eighteen stitches were required to close the ten head wounds he had received. He remained conscious but lost a large amount of blood from the cuts which. Interne Ellis who attended him said, went clear to the bone. Following medical attention, Miller refused to remain at the hospital and after much argument was taken home. The flashlight was the only thing stolen, he said.

Police officers found a gun butt in the house and it was taken to headquarters where it will be examined Monday for possible finger-prints. Robbery was the only motive police officers could ascribe for the attack. They said Miller often kept large sums of money on his person. Miller is unmarried.

Drs. George Underwood and T. F. McCarthy assisted Interne Ellis in attending the wounded man.

Four Day Furlough For Postal Employes

To meet budget emergencies all vacations for postal employes have been cancelled and a compulsory four-day furlough without pay before June 3 must be taken, according to a bulletin order received at the postoffice here Monday from Postmaster General James Farley. Rural carriers will not be furloughed, the bulletin says.

Evangelists Named For Camp Meeting

Rev. C. W. Ruth of Pasadena, Cal., and Rev. C. C. Rinebarger of St. Louis, Mo., will be the evangelists at the Nebraska State Holiness association annual camp meeting, according to the announcement made Monday by the association's secretary, Rev. A. V. Wilson. The meeting will be held from June 29 to July 3 at Bethany park.

One Cent a Day Brings $100 a Month

Over $700,000.00 in cash benefits have already been paid to one-cent a-day policyholders by the National Protective Insurance Co., 582 Pickwick Bldg., Kansas City, Mo., the oldest and largest company of its kind.

Their new accident policy, paying benefits up to $100 each month or $1,000 to $1,500 at death, is now being sold to all men, women and children between the ages of 7 and 80 years. The cost is only $3.65 a year—just one cent a day.

Send No Money

For 10 days' free inspection of policy, simply send name, age, address, beneficiary's name and relationship. No application to fill out, no medical examination. After reading policy, which will be mailed to you, either return it or send $3.65 which pays you up for a whole year—365 days. Write National Protective today while offer is still open.—Advertisement.

Is 101 Years Old

OSHKOSH, Neb., March 5—(AP)—Mrs. C. L. Gillard of Oshkosh, today planned a quiet observance of her 101st birthday. Mrs. Gillard, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Marshall, came to Oshkosh in 1884. In previous years, a party had been held in celebration of her birthday, but this year, Mrs. Gillard decided on a quiet day at home.

CHESTER BOYS HURT IN CRASH

Car Strikes Railroad Train Standing at Grade Crossing.

FAIRBURY, Neb., March 5—(AP)—Four Chester youths were injured Sunday night, when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into the side of a Northwestern railroad freight train which had stopped at a highway crossing at the north edge of Fairbury.

The most seriously injured was Doyle Huckins, driver of the car. Carl Leeding, Thomas Boyer and Willard Kettlehut, the others, were cut and bruised. The youths are 16 to 18 years old. They were en route home from Beatrice.

The train brakeman told local officers he waved a lantern in warning and had to jump out of the way to keep from getting hit. The boys told authorities they did not see the train. The car jammed under the train and it required considerable effort to extricate the boys. The train was not delayed.

Veterans Are Urged Organize Politically To Guard Benefits

BEATRICE, Neb., March 5—Speakers at the first congressional district meeting of the Veterans Voters league here Sunday urged veterans to organize politically to protect their benefits. W. E. Sanford, Lincoln, Dr. A. P. Fitzsimmons, Tecumseh, Fred Scarborough, Lloyd Chapman and G. E. Morrison, all of Lincoln, addressed the meeting.

The business session was presided over by Lloyd Chapman of Lincoln. Cass, Saunders, Gage, Johnson, Pawnee, Seward and Lancaster counties were represented.

The next meeting was set for March 25 at Nebraska City. Fred Scarborough was authorized to continue organization work.

FARMER'S BODY FOUND IN TANK

Charles L. Casper Believed to Have Suffered Stroke.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Neb., March 5—(AP)—The body of Charles L. Casper, 72, pioneer farmer, was found floating in a stock tank early today by his wife, who had started a search for him when he did not return from his chores.

Death is believed due to apoplexy and exposure.

FARM LEADERS SEE PROGRESS

Say Roosevelt Program Has Brought Results During Year.

OMAHA, March 5—(AP)—A year of Roosevelt policies and action has brought to farm leaders of Nebraska a hope that the future holds better things for the farmer and his family, Harry C. Parmenter, president of the Nebraska Farm Holiday association; H. G. Keeney, president of the Nebraska Farmers' union; Gus Sumnick, who entertained the president on his farm during the last presidential campaign, and A. N. Heggen, manager of the Nebraska-Iowa Co-operative Milk association, all saw hope for the future when asked for comment on the president's first year in office.

Keeney expressed the belief that there had been some improvement from the farmers' standpoint, but added that the farm operator was "still behind the rest of them," pointing out that he still must pay more for what he buys than he receives for what he sells.

Parmenter said "generally we feel as though there has been some progress, although there is a little disappointment that things haven't moved a little faster."

Heggen commented that "a large majority of the milk producers I meet are in favor of the president and his program."

Sumnick saw a hope that the farmer will be back to normal in two years. He said "if Roosevelt hadn't come along, we would have had a revolution; if his relief measures continue as they have started, the farmer will be back to normal in two years."

The problem of the farmer, the four declared, is far from solved, but they unanimously held the opinion that the president's program holds forth a hope for solution of the situation within a reasonable time. Holiday feeling, Keeney and Parmenter agreed, has died down considerably.

TWELVE FILE FOR CITY COMMISSION

BEATRICE, Neb., March 5—When filing time closed Saturday evening for candidates for city commissioner twelve had entered the race as follows: Mayor J. B. High, Commissioner J. A. Barnard and W. I. Reed, Walter McClanahan, Fred Wertz, J. W. McKissick, Drew Jamieson, James Terhune, Henry Schlachter, Edward Calland, Russell Robertson and U. McClarren. Four candidates filed for police magistrate. They are R. B. Appleget, incumbent, E. B. McGirr, Thomas Stubbs and Elmer Hackler. Four members of the board of education are seeking re-election, H. E. Sackett, Dr. H. R. Brown, John Ostrander and L. C. Crittenden. New candidates having filed are L. F. Deisner, L. C. Barnes, Paul Marvin and Dr. W. P. Montgomery.

FURS DESTROYED

LAKESIDE, Neb., March 5—(AP)—A truck loaded with $3,000 worth of furs and pelts burned on the highway near here. E. Rushnell, fur buyer who had picked up his load in the North Platte valley, reported the flames burst out without warning as he was driving to Sioux City. He carried no insurance.

HAROLD SCHWARK AGAIN ESCAPES FROM BLAIR JAIL

BLAIR, Neb., March 5—(AP)—The Blair jail just isn't big enough to hold Harold Schwark, 40, sentenced to 12 years in the penitentiary on a statutory charge. Schwark Sunday morning made his second escape in five days by taking hot coals from the stove and burning out a section of wood flooring beneath the cellroom steel door. He then managed to release a bolt in the cell door. Once in the corridor, he removed the same front door hinge he took off Wednesday, and was gone again. Schwark was to have been taken to prison Monday.

BABE BURNS TO DEATH IN HOME

Older Sister Supposed to Have Played With Matches.

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb., March 5—(AP)—The two months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Mosher of near Minatare was burned to death Sunday and their home was destroyed by a fire apparently set by an older daughter who was believed to have been playing with matches.

The parents were visiting neighbors and the two children were at home alone.

The older child ran screaming from the house and escaped injury.

Authorities said the older daughter, about two years old, was believed to have set fire to window curtains.

The Moshers are truck gardeners living on an island of the North Platte river.

Mrs. D. L. Shanahan Is Dead At Omaha

OMAHA, March 5—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Rush Shanahan, 64, member of a pioneer Omaha family and widow of David L. Shanahan, died at a local hospital today of pneumonia. Mrs. E. P. McLaughlin of Lincoln is a sister. She was the daughter of John Rush. Surviving are five sons, two daughters, her mother, Mrs. Rush; two brothers, and five sisters, in addition to Mrs. McLaughlin. Funeral services were set tentatively for Wednesday at St. Patrick church here.

Babe Found Dead

OMAHA, March 5—(AP)—Joan Slama, 10-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Slama, was found dead in her crib this morning, apparently smothered by bed clothes. The infant's aunt, Mrs. Frank Hert, found the child dead two hours after she had visited the crib and found the child sleeping quietly.

LEGION AUXILIARY MEET.

OMAHA, March 5—(AP)—Mrs. O. W. Hahn of Wayne, national vice president, (northwest division) American Legion auxiliary, will be one of the principal speakers Friday at the auxiliary's district convention to be held in the South Omaha legion post's headquarters. Mrs. O. L. Webb, David City, national committeewoman from Nebraska, and Mrs. Glenn Patrick, Alliance, department president, will also be among the speakers.

Three Men Killed When Plane Dives Into Lake

LAWRENCE, Ill., March 5—(INS)—An official inquiry was opened today into the crash of a monoplane that carried three Vincennes, Ind., men to their deaths in ice-covered Lake Lawrence, a pleasure-resort eight miles east of here.

The dead are Lloyd Nicolay, 36, pilot; Clayton Hobbs, 45, and Charles Cofover, 33.

Flying at a low altitude after an hour's flight, the plane banked sharply, one wing struck the lake surface and the monoplane dived into the lake.

MILLER & PAINE

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS— By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off

The answer which took 47 full days on the witness stand was given by Mr. Burkhart, Omaha auditor, in the district court of Douglas county, in Omaha, Nebraska. Mr. Burkhart was called as a witness in a $1,000,000 lawsuit brought by one packing company against another involving a lease. During the course of the trial 55,000 exhibits were offered and identified. The hearing started in the fall of 1925 and continued over into the following year. About 100 days were spent in court.

The question to which Mr. Burkhart gave his 47-day answer, appears in the records of the case as:

"Now Mr. Burkhart, I wish that you would identify these work sheets, material slips and time slips giving each an exhibit number, and tell what work they represent." Without another question, without further instruction or interruption the witness gave 47 days of testimony.

It got so long that even the attorneys became bored, leaving only the referee, the witness and the court reporters who recorded the testimony. Strange as it seems, the case never went to a decision—it was settled out of court by the litigants.

IOWA TURNS BACK.

OVER in Iowa, one of the first states to enact a farm moratorium measure, which provided the model for the law adopted by the last Nebraska legislature, and signed by Governor Bryan, an attempt to extend its provisions beyond the original limits failed in the Iowa senate.

Both Nebraska's and Iowa's laws are identical.

The moratorium expires on March 1, 1935, or just a year from last Thursday. The reasons for refusal of the Hawkeye state solons to extend the law were not set forth in the news dispatches telling of their action. There might have been any number of explanations given, but the most accurate of all would have been that the measure itself furnished the most fickle relief to the debtor and at best was only temporary. It served to postpone the evil day.

Except in the case of a harsh and obdurate creditor, and there were creditors of this type, the debtor himself could have accomplished everything which the law did. In fact, had he chosen the other path in many instances, he would have been better off. The law did not cancel claims for delinquent interest and it did not pare down principal payments. It merely left the debtor in possession of his land for a specified period of time, while such matters as unpaid interest or unpaid principal were left for settlement between him and his creditor. Thousands who undertook to conciliate their creditors were successful in reaching settlements—settlements which reflected an unusual degree of sympathy and understanding, and which were based upon sound principles of social justice.

The unfortunate effect of the moratorium legislation was that its true significance was misunderstood. It was used as a shield by some debtors to avoid and evade their creditors; just as some creditors were greedy, unreasonable, and avaricious. But where the creditor was proceeding fairly, where he was not endeavoring to utilize an emergency in order to enrich himself at a debtor's expense—in all such cases, the plan of conciliation has worked out magnificently, and the farmer who owed money on his land, and who endeavored to arrive at an agreement, is in a much better position than his neighbor who placed his cards upon the moratorium law. The only thing which the latter settled was the question of the possession of the farm during the life of emergency legislation. He did not get to his real problem at all. He postponed it. In some instances he injured his own credit and his own standing; in some instances he implanted in the creditor precisely the feeling which is damaging to the debtor's case.

The Iowa legislature may have decided the circumstances which created an emergency were over. Certainly, the question of the duration of an emergency is one of paramount importance in determining the validity of moratorium laws. For in the Minnesota decision, the United States supreme court did not attempt to pass upon the validity of the principle involved, except as an emergency measure. It is not logical to suggest that the circumstances which justified emergency legislation can be interpreted to establish it as a permanent policy. The court was very careful to avoid any suggestion that the debts could be scaled by moratorium action. On the contrary, it was very positive in indicating that what had taken place was merely to permit farm ownership to remain unchanged during a furious storm.

In Nebraska, it is to be hoped, in view of the fact that the moratorium law automatically expires a year hence, that debtors will adopt the attitude of conciliation in arriving at agreements with their creditors. The debt problem is not settled. It still looms large on the horizon. The debtor who knows that within the next year he will be called upon to refinance himself should not wait until the last minute. He should be planning and making his arrangements now.

All of this era of trouble has been a remarkably humanizing experience for the American people. It has bred in them a greater degree of tolerance, a broader spirit of sympathy, a keener appreciation that in life the elements of fairness and of conciliation play a most dominant part.

SOPPING WET.

IT IS easy to understand why James Whitcomb Riley and other Hoosier poets and novelists loved their state. In spite of its extensive manufactories, now largely quiet and slumbering, its cities with their thousands—in some manner, it has managed to retain its rural beauty. It's an attractive agriculture Indiana possesses, even if it does not cut such an impressive figure in the production figures.

Its farms extend back more than a hundred years when the Kentuckians, ever in search of adventure, left their settlements along the Cumberland followed another trail into the wilderness.

Winter has played a strange trick. Coming east, the snow and the ice increase. From Illinois to the Atlantic seaboard, storm has followed on the heels of storm. The ground is soaked and water stands in the fields in ponds. All of the region of the Ohio valley has received more moisture than in years. And it needed it badly, too. The summer of 1933 placed a heavy hand on most of Indiana and Ohio. Little rain fell from spring until late fall, with the result that production was cut greatly. But both Ohio and Indiana will go into the 1934 season amply fortified.

It is necessary to go back to the winter season of 1926-27 in Nebraska to find a parallel for the excellent moisture conditions which prevail in the lake region. It will be remembered that the summer of 1927 gave Nebraska the best production record, all crops included, of any year since the figures were available. Nature certainly isn't co-operating with Secretary Wallace for the entire length of the Ohio valley, but no one has suggested what will be done about it. It is soppingly wet in Indiana and Ohio; referring, of course, to the soil.

THE MODERN PUBLICANS.

AMPLE justification for the federal government's decision to discontinue the civil works program by May 1 is found in the misuse of its funds in some of the states. Local politicians who had charge of the spending have, in some cases, been guilty of taking the money advanced from Washington to relieve unemployment and placing it where it would do themselves the most good.

In some cases, jobs were distributed among the henchmen of the officials controlling civil works expenditures. The money was squandered on projects of little public value in order to favor communities that could be depended on to deliver plenty of votes to a state or big city political organization.

In North Dakota, a state having no large centers of population, but one which is more or less under machine domination, it is revealed that civil works employes were called upon to contribute political assessments out of their wages for the personal campaign fund of the governor, who is seeking renomination and re-election. In California, also, the workers were subjected to demands for payment of tribute out of their earnings.

Nothing of this sort has come to light in Nebraska; in fact, most of the states seem to have administered the civil works funds allotted them from Washington in a manner above serious criticism. But these states must suffer for the grafting and political holdup practices carried on elsewhere. The federal authorities cannot take chances on such abuses being continued or extended; so the whole program must stop.

However, a new plan is to be put into effect, whereby the national relief administration will make funds available for actual construction projects in the various states, to be formulated and supervised by their own officials, subject to approval at Washington. This is substantially the same procedure as that adopted by the federal public works administration.

In this way, a state will get its reasonable share of available employment funds provided from the national treasury, but only on condition that assurance is given for the expenditures of the money on bona fide undertakings. The state will be directly responsible to Washington for every dollar paid out; and where any irregularities are found the federal government can and will cut off further advances.

It is deplorable that any public official or state or local civil works administrator, in such times as these, would stoop to such reprehensible tactics as have been brought to light in certain parts of the country. Anyone so callous to human needs as to attempt to capitalize for his own gain or advantage on relief and unemployment funds deserves only public scorn.

CAPTAIN BROOKLEY.

YOUNG Captain W. H. Brookley, the Nebraskan whose death occurred in Washington when the parachute with which he leaped from a plane failed to open, entered military service when the United States got into the World war. He had planned to be a druggist, following in the footsteps of his father, Will Brookley, a pioneer Nebraska druggist, with a wide acquaintance throughout the state, and especially in Adams and Clay counties. But young Brookley never got back to his prescriptions. From the start, the fascination of riding with the wind high in the skies gripped him. There was the kiss of cool, fresh air rushing by; the thrill of soaring to mighty heights and covering vast distances with incredible speed. The fever of it got into his veins, and virtually from the time he arrived at Kelly field, he served in the aviation branch. So proficient he became that he was elevated to the rank of instructor and it became his duty to instruct other young men how to fly.

Then the war closed, but Lieutenant Brookley did not leave the service. He had advanced from private to corporal, from corporal to sergeant, from sergeant to lieutenant. Three years ago, he became a captain.

Aviation and its vital importance to national defense had supplanted the drug business in his plans. It is just a little short of seventeen years since Captain Brookley answered the call to the colors. All of that time he and his fellow officers and buddies have been flying—thousands of miles—testing new airplanes; trying out new equipment; seeking to improve the aviation branch of the national defense, so that, should war come, America could meet any challenge hurled at it from the air. It is a dangerous gamble these men take for the sake of their country. In the ordinary commercial sense, flying has become quite as safe as other forms of transportation. But that is not the case of the men who pioneer in national defense. Captain Brookley was killed when he jumped from an altitude of 300 feet. His chute did not open. Whether it was defective or whether other uncontrollable circumstances were responsible has not been disclosed in the news dispatches. The war department has ordered an inquiry. But here was a young man who died in line of duty; who once, while instructing others how to fly, had to battle for the life of his pupil and for his own life while high in the skies, when the novice in his charge suddenly became crazed; who on several occasions was forced to make difficult and daring landings; who braved rain, and wind, and cold, and fogs to become a better American soldier. He died trying to add to the strength of the air service.

Captain Brookley had a splendid service record. It fell to his lot to test out the first amphibian plane built for the army by Boehling. With its designer on the first trial flight, he fell into Long Island sound, in 90 feet of water, offshore five miles. He saved the plane. It was his latest assignment to test all planes ordered by the government. It was a position of high trust and confidence.

On the train with us going into Washington was his father and his brother. They must have realized how completely, how utterly, the World war changed the lives of people. A boy who had dreamed of becoming a successful Nebraska druggist, spent practically his entire maturity in prying loose the secrets of the skies.

HAIR AND HIDE.

THE ancients were not so dumb.

They had a practice of permitting one who had committed an offense against the state to make atonement by ending his own life. It was an easy solution of an unpleasant situation. The state did not soil its hands by putting one to death, and at the same time, the offender paid the penalty.

In Indiana Wednesday, a murderer who tried to cheat the chair by opening the arteries in his wrists, lost his second bout with the law. The prison authorities found him nearly dead from loss of blood. They patched up his wounds, called upon other prisoners for volunteers to give blood, and pumped enough of it into him to keep him alive, until the appointed hour arrived for him to sit in the chair. The law had been vindicated; its dignity upheld; its stern majesty maintained. No little sniveling, cringing, cowardly scrimp was going to beat it out of its final triumph. The mills of justice were grinding inexorably and even the decision of a murderer to spare the state a painful, horrifying duty could not stand in the way.

That is carrying justice a step too far. Perhaps the governor, the prison authorities thought they were giving law a new authority, a new austerity, a new sternness. In reality, they were making it rather cheap and petty, which law can never affaird to be. It must be surrounded with the glamor of humanitarianism even while engaged in a task which is disagreeable. Not that we should have sympathy for this particular murderer. He was a wife-killer. His crime was cold blooded and brutal. But the law did not gain anything by prolonging his life after he had attempted to do away with himself. He had been convicted. He kept hoping, against hope he could beat the sentence of death. But he did not and it is not a matter of great interest who carried out the sentence.

Everyday Questions

Questions from Lincoln Star readers are answered daily by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of the Federated Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman seeks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought in the many letters which he receives. QUESTIONS.

Glen Ellis, N. Y.

I am interested in your occasional references to the lepers of the world, especially those in the Philippines and in our own country. Can you tell me what is being done for these unfortunate afflicted ones?

ANSWER.

Much, but not enough. However for the first time in the existence of the American Mission to Lepers the right kind of book on the world-wide leper situation is available. It is at once brief, hopeful, accurate and comprehensive. It is entitled "Hope for the Leper," and the author, Christine I. Tinling, of London, England, has donoted 2,000 copies to the American Mission, which is located at 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

I suggest you read Miss Tinling's little volume. Rev. William M. Danner, who has given many years of faithful work to this worthy cause, will be glad to answer further inquiries about it.

Of the two and more million lepers in the world the majority are in Africa and Asia and 1,000 are located in our country. The disease is not inherited and the children of leper parents can be safeguarded against infection if they are taken early from their parents. It can also be checked if promptly treated in its primary stages, and thousands of reported cases have been dismissed from leper colonies as "symptom free." Our American mission, of which Mr. Danner is general secretary, aids sufferers from leprosy at 150 hospitals in forty countries. What Christian remembering Christ's special care for the victims can forget them now.

QUESTION.

Atlanta, Ga.

Do the Congregationalists have any fixed creed on which they all agree?

ANSWER.

No. They have certain statements of Christian doctrine both in England and America to which they are free to give common sensent. Their churches rest upon the word of God as revealed in the holy scriptures which are for them the standard and rule of faith. This allegiance has been their chief characteristic since the Congregational order began in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries.

You may ask what exactly is that word of God upon which Congregationalism rests. At the recent Lausanne conference its delegates, including those of the Congregational churches, agreed that notwithstanding differences in doctrine they were one in the Christian faith proclaimed in the Bible and witnessed and safeguarded by the Nicene and the Apostle's creeds.

Congregationalism, however, is not committed in advance to any particular formulation of belief. It contends that the changeless gospel must be re-expressed from time to time in the light of an increasing knowedge of its content and also of the needs of humanity. Therefore its adherents cannot hold without variation the theology of their predecessors. But they consider it is their solemn obligation and greatest privilege to receive and transmit the evangel of God in Christ Jesus. This evangel may be transmitted in manifold sacrementarian, legal and evangelical ways. Nevertheless it is always the declaration of the Father's amazing grace in his Son who visited and redeemed His people.

Creeds in general are a natural expression of religious faith and its articulate utterances. No church could be completely creedless and survive. The fundamentals creeds contain cannot be disowned without grave loss. In fact, it should be said that the church universal stakes its existence on a crucified, risen and exalted Christ, the revealer of the Father, the Saviour of the race and the mediator of truth and grace through the indwelling Holy spirit. All Christian creeds endeavor to express in one way or another these basic religious principles.

QUESTION.

Lincoln, Neb.

Why cannot I be my own guide about religion? Ministers seem to me to be rather useless and presumptuous when they undertake to give advice and assume direction of one's personal affairs.

ANSWER.

Quite likely, and many feel as you do. Such books as "Every Man His Own Lawyer" and "Every Man His Own Doctor" are indications of that excessive individualism which aids and abets social separatisms. You say in your rather lengthy letter that Jesus was an individualist. True enough, but He was also the greatest collectivist of the ages.

He founded the Christian church on the basis of co-operation, fraternity submission to spiritual authority and then insisted on obedience to its inherent requirements of that authority. So far as religion is concerned there is no such factor as the solitariness you desire. Whatever is verifiable in the ways of God toward men is widely diffused. Whatever He reveals to you He reveals to others. Otherwise He would be open to the accusation of favoritism.

You cannot monopolize the Lord, so to speak, for your individual benefit, nor have an illumination from above which is strictly your own to the exclusion of every one else. So dismiss that idea as a vain conceit. Nor do ministers represent themselves in their office. On the contrary, they are simply the agents of their Maker. And what they say or do has to be judged from that standpoint. As they have received of God, so they impart to us. Their credentials are of His authorization and they must be commended to their fellow men by their fellow men by their zeal, prudence and charity.

Why censure these servants who seek to serve the best interests of life? Since they strive for our common good, reserve your condemnation for the selfish and the greedy who wish to exploit us for their own ends. In my own experience I have never known a man or woman, however excellent, who did not rely on a higher guidance for their spiritual attainments. Forget your spurious independence, for it has no reality behind it.

Diet and Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., Author of "THE HUMAN BODY"

DO YOU KNOW WHAT TO DO IN CASE OF AN ACCIDENT?

March 11 to March 17 has been designated this year as First Aid week.

What would you do if a member of your family was severely cut and bleeding? Suppose you and another person, in taking a walk, were to find a man who was unconscious, apparently as the result of some accident. Your companion goes to the nearest place for help. What can you do in the meantime?

Dr. Clendening

What would you do in case somebody in your family came rushing in with the horrifying announcement that he had accidentally poisoned himself?

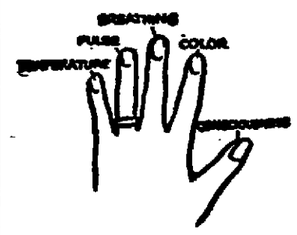

an you honestly answer these questions and be perfectly certain that you are doing the right thing? It would seem to be far more fundamental to know these things than it would be to speak French or to play the piano or to have read the latest book so that is can be discussed. Most people have a vague idea about all of them, but let's get it definite.

The best book that I know on the subject is called "First Aid for Boys" by Dr. Norman B. Cole and Clayton H. Ernst, published by D. Appleton and company; price $1.50.

In this book there is an illustration which is useful to help people to remember the important symptoms which should be observed in the presence of an accident.

The thumb is consciousness—whether the patient is conscious or not. In head injuries, concussions, skull fractures, apoplexy, severe alcoholic intoxication, or sunstroke, the consciousness is usually dull or absent. In ordinary exhaustion or shock from a severe jolt of the whole body, or hemorrhage, consciousness is seldom absent—it may be very much lowered.

The index finger represents color. In concussion, apoplexy, or sunstroke, it may be flushed. In shock, fainting or exhaustion—pale.

Five symptoms to look for in emergencies.

The middle finger represents breathing. The normal rate of the breathing is about 16 to the minute. With head injuries and heat stroke, the breathing is heavy, noisy and perhaps slow. In fainting and exhaustion it is shallow and rapid.

The ring finger represents the pulse. It can easily be felt at the wrist with a little practice, and should be going at about a rate of 72 a minute. With a person unconscious or semi-conscious the rate of the pulse is a very valuable sign of the seriousness of the condition. If markedly off normal, either rapid above 100 or slow below 50, it indicates a serious condition. One is able to differentiate hysteria and faking from the real thing in this way.

The little finger represents the temperature. This may be determined in a rough way simply by feeling the patient, and is also a good indication of the seriousness of the condition. Cold, clammy skin or dry, hot skin indicates that there is organic trouble present.

THE NEXT GENERATION.

We shall leave you many problems;
many tasks we couldn't do.
We shall leave a world unfinished that shall need the best of you.
And I wonder as I see you grouped in school and college still,
If you know the chance that waits
you in the places you must fill.

The voice of opportunity is calling loud for men;
Men of wisdom, men of courage, to set right the world again;
Men of honor, men of vision, now are needed, men the future's work to share;
And I wonder if you've heard it, and have started to prepare.

We have blundered; we have stumbled and have somehow lost our way.
In the wreckage of our failure we are gropers all today.
But you boys who follow after face a future strewn with need
And endless opportunities to conquer and succeed.

2 Slayers Pay Penalty

BELLEFONTE, Pa., March 5—(INS)— Two slayers of a Scranton policeman walked to their deaths in the state's electric chair here at Rockview penitentiary today.

Wallace Swakinski, Scranton, was pronounced dead at 7:05. James J. Riggs, Colchester, Conn., his convicted partner in the slaying of Patrolman Lewis Roberts, broke down under the strain.

With wavering steps, Riggs was assisted to the chair and pronounced dead at 7:12.

Hungarian Regent Now Thinks There Will Be No War

Horty Says European Authority to Preserve Peace is Needed.

BY H. R. KNICKERBOCKER.
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

(Copyright, 1934, by International News Service. Reproduction in whole or part forbidden.)

BUDAPEST, March 5 — "Last year I was certain there would be war this year; now I think there will be no war at all," said Admiral Horty, regent of Hungary.

"The grave danger," he added "was of the so-called preventive war. Of course it would have prevented nothing, and would only have brought about in the end the same disaster that would overtake Europe after any war whether you call it 'preventive' or not.

"But it seems now virtually certain that wiser councils have prevailed. After all, in order to carry out a war, it is necessary at any rate to believe, to have a certain conviction that you are going to win. Now who today could go to war against anybody else and say positively 'we will surely win'?

"No, I now think not only that there will be no war, but that questions which now disturb the peace of Europe will ultimately be settled without any war at all. There is not one point of friction that could not be removed if the proper pressure were brought to bear by the great powers."

Hopes to Recover Land.

In interpretation it may be remarked that Hungary's chief aim today is to recover from the Little Entente the enormous blocks of territory she lost, but particularly to recover Slovakia from Czecho-Slovakia. If the great powers were to bring "the proper pressure" to bear on Czecho-Slovakia, Hungary feels her claim might be satisfied without war.

"What we need in Europe, though," went on the regent, "is more authority. I agree with Mussolini that fundamental changes in the organization of Europe are essential—essential for the preservation of the peace.

"The reorganization must be along lines that will permit the great powers to get together and say to any trouble-maker: 'You must behave; you must cease to do this or you must do that.' I do not mean a league army. That is not necessary. It would suffice if the great powers merely used their own forces as a threat. With such authority behind anybody I am confident that order would be restored in Europe in one day.

"You ask what will happen when Germany is rearmed. It is not necessary that anything should happen. Sooner or later the justifiable claims for revision will be granted, and there is no reason why there should be any war at all."

23 SUBDIVISIONS REDEEM SECURITIES

State School Fund Paid $45,900 Plus $3,700 Interest; Money To Be Reinvested.

Bonds of 23 cities, villages, school districts, and other Nebraska subdivisions, in the total sum of $45,900 held by the state as investments of its permanent trust funds, were redeemed and cancelled by the issuing units in February, and the treasury received therefrom an equal amount now available for reinvestment, together with interest payments of about $3,700 for the temporary school fund.

The following list of securities paid off and retired was given out by State Treasurer Hall:

Spooky Meets His Cousin

Who of each day doth make the best
Is fitted to meet any test.
—Old Mother Nature.

Spooky the Screech Owl, whose home was in the Old Orchard, had spent the early part of the night hunting. He had caught two Mice and, therefore, was feeling in good spirits. He sat in his doorway trying to decide whether to hunt for another Mouse or be satisfied with what he had. A movement in the next tree caught his attention. A bird had just alighted there. Who could it be? None of the feathered folk would be about in the night unless it was another member of the Owl family. Perhaps it was Mrs. Spooky.

He leaned forward to see better. He blinked. It wasn't Mrs. Spooky sitting up there. No, sir, it wasn't Mrs. Spooky. It wasn't even a stranger of his own kind. It was too small for a Screech Owl. Yet it looked like an Owl. It certainly did. He blinked again. Then he flew and perched on a neighboring limb of that tree and stared at the little stranger most impolitely.

"Who are you?" he demanded bluntly.

The small stranger ruffled his feathers, snapped his bill and stared at Spooky. "I don't know that it is any business of yours who I am," he replied tartly.

It was Spooky's turn to ruffle his feathers and snap his bill. "This is my hunting ground and I don't allow any one else to hunt here," said he.

"Don't try to bully me," retorted the other. "This is a free country. Besides, you haven't seen me hunting yet."

This was true, and Spooky knew it. For a moment he was somewhat confused. "Well, don't try it," he replied lamely.

"Who will stop me?" demanded the little stranger angrily.

"I will," snapped Spooky. "The Mice around here belong to me."

The little stranger chuckled. "Do they know it?" he asked.

Spooky ignored this. "In these bad times it is hard enough for those who belong here to get a living," said he. "There is no room for strangers. You don't belong here. I never saw you before. What business have you to come here?"

"The business of getting a living," replied the little Owl. "It just happens that I have as good a right to live as you have, and if I can't get a living in one place, I'll try some other place, which is exactly what you do. Isn't it?"

Spooky was forced to admit that it was. Meanwhile curiousity was overcoming his bad temper. This little stranger was so much smaller than any Owl he ever had seen, yet so independent, that he was forced to admire his courage. "We won't fight until there is something to fight about," said he. "Tell me something."

"Tell you what?" asked the other. "Did you forget to grow up?" asked Spooky.

The little Owl fluffed his feathers out to make himself look as big as possible snapped his bill and glared at Spooky.

"I didn't mean to offend you," said Spooky hastily. "You are an Owl all right, so you must be a cousin of mine. But I didn't know that there was a member of the family so small, May I ask your name?"

"I'm Saw-whet the Acadian Owl," replied his cousin proudly. "Some folks call me Saw-filer. I guess we Saw whets are the smallest of the Owl family in this part of the country, but I have been told that in the West lives a cousin who is a little smaller. They call him Pigmy. And down in the Southwest lives the smallest of all. His name is Elf."

"Who are you?" he demanded bluntly.

Middle-Aged Men Largest Group In Lancaster County Unemployed

Middle-aged workers constitute the most numerous group of unemployed in Lancaster county, as disclosed by a test survey recently made under the direction of the state relief administration. However, there were almost as many unemployed among persons under 30 years of age included in this enumeration, including 1,103 unoccupied workers.

The number not employed between 40 and 50 years of age was 269, compared with 259 in the class under 30. Between 30 and 40 the count was 235. In the division from 50 to 60 years there were 207 listed; and above 60 the total number was 133.

This compilation does not pretend to cover the total unemployed, but is believed to give a fair cross-section of the entire idle population in Lancaster county. It is also regarded as a fair index to unemployment conditions in other cities of the state.

Of the 1,103 potential wage-earners lacking jobs, 264 were classified as construction and building workers; 166 were experienced in transportation service; 149 in retail business lines; 95 in agriculture and horticulture, 94 in personal service; 79 in manufacturing; 52 in trades; 51 in wholesale merchandising; 30 in governmental service; 20 in public utility work; 12 in financial activities; 8 in professional service; and 83 in miscellaneous fields

Average length of unemployment periods ranged from 8 1-5 months in the financial group up to 26.22 months for transportation, 27:9 months for miscellaneous workers, and 28 1-3 months in the professions.

GOOD ATTACKS TAX STATUTE

Supreme Court to Hear Arguments Monday On Levy Act.

Constitutionality of a statute passed by the 1933 legislature providing that delinquent taxes collected after the end of the fiscal year for which they were levied shall be applied to bond sinking funds is attacked by Attorney General Paul Good in a brief filed Monday with the Supreme court in the mandamus action brought by the Douglas county commissioners against Otto Bauman, county treasurer. The suit, to compel Bauman to turn over to the county general fund $20,000 of delinquent taxes collected since last August, was to be argued before the court Monday afternoon.

Good filed his brief as friend of the court. Briefs were also filed on behalf of Scotts Bluff county, Madison county, Madison city school district, the city of Norfolk and the Norfolk school district.

Good attacks the statute involved H. R. 345, on the grounds that it is not a complete act in itself as it does not have a subject of its own apart from its amendatory character; it presents irreconcilable contradictions, involving other statutes dealing with tax levies and delinquencies and it violates statutes creating home rule charters for cities such as Lincoln and Omaha. H. R. 345 was a pet measure presented by the Association of Omaha Taxpayers, and Good criticizes the drawers of the act for their lack of understanding of governmental fiscal methods and policies.

The counties, cities and school district which have filed briefs in the case contend that the law seriously interferes with their finances.

On the other hand, W. L. Pierpoint, president of the Association of Omaha Taxpayers, in Lincoln to hear the case argued, declared Monday that the law has forced the Douglas county commissioners to make retrenchments totalling $150,000 since the law became effective.

O. O. Johnson Files For Congress Race In Fifth District

Former State Representative O O. Johnson of Gordon has entered the race for the republican congressional nomination in the fifth district. His filing papers reached the secretary of state's office in Monday's mail.

Johnson is a prominent rancher in his part of the state and has been more or less active in politics for the last eight or ten years. After serving a term or two in the lower branch of the legislature, he was defeated for relection in 1930 by Mrs. Myrtle Musser, democrat, of Rushville, now Mrs. George C. Sa... of Chadron.

Primary opposition for State Senator John G. Boelts of Central City in case he tries to come back, became a certainty Monday through an incomplete filing for that office in the 20th district democratic primary, made by C. R. Stenberg of Genoa. The district includes Nance, Merrick, and Platte counties. Stenberg sent a receipt for his $5 filing fee paid to the treasurer of Nance county, but did not enclose his personal application in the regular form. Deputy Secretary of State Tolen mailed him a blank with instructions to fill it in, sign, and return it.

State Representative H. C. Lorenson of Wood Lake has refiled for his seat on the democratic ticket in the 78th house district.

HEART FATALITIES HEAVY

BOSTON—(INS)—Pointing out that heart disease causes more than one-half the deaths in the fifties and sixties, Dr. Frank A. Fulton, of Providence, R. I., told Harvard medical students that a yearly physical examination after the fiftieth birthday was necessary.

Flush the Bowels

If hardened waste matter is clogging the bowels, causing constipation, piles, pains in the lower abdomen, gas, distress after eating, or if poorly functioning bowels is aggravating or causing the spread of neuritis, rheumatism, arthritis, lumbago, blotchy complexion, kidney and bladder troubles or excessive weight—YOU owe it to yourself and those who depend on you to make a simple easy GUARANTEED test. Just flush the bowels. To do this, go at once to the best druggist you know and get a jar of SLEEPY SALTS. These synthetically blended earthly minerals are patterned after the famous Sleepy Water from Hot Springs, Ark. The taste is astoundingly different from ordinary salts — in fact you'll find it like taking the original Sleepy Water. After the very first time Sleepy Salts has had a chance to cleanse the poisons and acids from the system and flush them out along with hardened waste matter, you'll feel so much better and look so much younger you'll want almost to dance for joy. You'll work better—rest better—and you'll find your resistance to colds the greatest in years. Naturally, too, the pains of rheumatism, neuritis, etc., are eased as congestion at the affected parts is cleared away. Don't expect ordinary laxatives to do a job like this—you've got to flush the bowels so get Sleepy Salts at once. The 75c size is featured this week on a money back guarantee.

President Challenges Industry Raise Wages And Shorten Hours Immediately; Asks Protection For Small Business

"The Government Cannot Forever Continue To Absorb The Whole Burden Of Unemployment," Roosevelt Warns Assembled Code Authorities In Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 5—(AP)—The president's text today as he addressed the NRA code authorities:

"Eight and a half months ago when I signed the recovery act I said "must we go on in many groping, disorganized, separate units to defeat or shall we move as one great team to victory."

The team is before me this morning—3,500 leaders of 600 greater organized industries representing, as measured by employment, more than 90 per cent of the industrial field which is covered by the NRA. Naturally I am deeply gratified that the faith which I expressed last June is so well justied in March.

Compliments Delegates.

I do not undertake today to present either a broad review of all the manifold causes which led up to the distressful situation from which the nation is emerging or a recapitulation of the events, the measures and the results of this past year. You are here as the direct represeneatives of only one element in our complex modern life but at the same time because of the fine spirit you have shown, I can congratulate you on an approach to your own problems which shows an understanding of the many other problems which cris-cross and dovetail into each other to make up the broad objective of the American people.

It is sufficient for me to point out once more that the difficult and dangerous situation into which the United States had got itself was due to the general attitude, 'every man for himself; the devil take the hindmost." Individuals were seeking quick riches at the expense of other individuals. Geographical sections were seeking economic preference for themselves to the disadvantage of other sections. Cities were recklessly offering inducements to manufacturing plants to move away from other cities. Within given industries unfair competition went un unheeded or resulted in vast consolidations whose securities were peddled to the public at dishonest prices. There was little consideration for the social point of view and no planning whatsoever to avoid the pitfalls of overproduction or of selling methods which foisted articles on a guillible public, which the family budget could not afford.

That is a strong picture but you and I, in the bottom of our hearts, know that it is a true picture. Most of us participated in the making of that picture. We did not know as much then as we know now, and because our eyes have been opened, it is possible that future history will call that crazy decade of 1919 to 1929 one of the greatest blessings that ever came to the American people.

It was because the situation in March, 1933, was so serious all along the line that remedies had to be applied to every phase of the illness. The objective was, as you know, to apply these remedies in the American way and not to copy those which are being tried in other countries which do not live under the same form of democratic government as ours. I am always a little amused and perhaps at times a little saddened—and I think the American people feel the same way—by those few writers and speakers who proclaim tearfully either that we are now committed to communism and collectivism or that we have adopted fascism and a dictatorship. The real truth of the matter is that for a number of years in our country the machinery of democracy had failed to function.

Through inertia on the part of leaders and on the part of the people themselves, the operations of government had fallen into the hands of special groups, some of them vociferously led by people who undertook to obtain special advantages for special classes and others led by a handful of individuals who believed in their superhuman ability to retain in their own hands the entire business and financial control over the economic and social structure of the nation.

Thanks Co-Aperators.

The fine response given by the overwhelming majority of the component parts of industry as represented here today proves to me that you have the same understanding of our broad purpose as is held by the average of the workers of the United States—and that word "workers" means almost all of the American people. You have shown sincere desire for real co-operation: you have shown prompt response to the governmental request for national unity. For this support I give you my thanks.

The national industrial recovery act was drawn with the greatest good of the greatest number in mind. Its aim was to increase the buying power of wage earners and farmers so that industry, labor and the public might benefit through building up the market for farm and factory goods. Employer, wage earner and consumer groups are all represented on its boards with the government: all three groups with the government must have the interest of all the people as their main responsibility.

What we seek is balance in our economic system—balance between agriculture and industry and balance between the wage earner, the employer and the consumer. We seek also balance that our internal markets be kept rich and large and that our trade with other nations be increased on both sides of the ledger.

Believes Test Succeeding.

You and I are now conducting a great test to find out how the business leaders in all groups of industry can develop capacity to operate for the general welfare. Personally I am convinced that with your help the test is succeeding.

The very conception of NRA follows the democratic procedure of our government itself. Its theory of self regulation follows the American method rather than any of the experiments being tried in other nations.

The very fact that you have been in Washington to criticize and to discuss the way NRA is working out is sufficient proof of this point.

There are some people, of course, who do not think things through; as, for example, the man who complained in one of yesterday morning's papers that criticism was held to be unpatriotic. Let me put the case so clearly that even his type will understand. If we admit that the government has a specific problem to solve and undertakes to do it in a specific way, the critic is unpatriotic who contents himself with loudly proclaiming that that way, that method is no good; that it won't work; that it is wrong to do this. This critic contributes nothing—he is not constructive; he is unpatriotic because he attempts to destroy without even suggestions a way to build up.

Constructive Critic Wanted.

On the other hand, the critic is patriotic whether he be a business man, a worker, a farmer or a politician if he says, I don't like the methods you are using to solve the problem; I believe it would be far better if we were to use the following alternative method, and thereupon outlines for the benefit of his neighbor and his government a helpful proposal.

In this great evolution through which we are passing, the average American is doing splendid service by coming back at the captious critic and saying to him, "Well, old man, and what do you suggest?" One thing is very certain, we are not going back either to the old conditions or to the old methods.

And now to be more specific in regard to NRA itself. You have set up representative government in industry. You are carrying it on without violation of the constitutional or the parliamentary system to which the United States has been accustomed. Your industrial groups are composed of two parts—labor and management; and the government is a participant in this organization in order to carry out this mandate of the law, "to promote organization in industry for the purpose of co-operative action in trade groups and to induce and maintain united action of labor and management under adequate government sanction and supervision." Somebody, of course, must strike the equitable balance between conflicting interests and especially must protect the third group—the consumer —and that word "consumer" means the whole American people.

Create Consuming Power.

That group has also been in Washington, invited to come here and to make known publicly any complaint as to the effects of any of the codes. I am sure it will hearten you to know that the great majority of the complaints were directed not at the codes but at errors and omissions in what has been done under codes. The great bulk of complaint or criticism of the recovery act does not go to the act itself or to its basic principles, but rather to the details of more method. In this we should feel encouraged and heartened that we are on the right track and can go forward.

In working out the balance on a national scale, of which I have spoken before, we can list certain immediate objectives. I spoke last June of the fact that wage increases will eventually raise costs but I asked that management give first consideration to increasing the purchasing power of the public. I said, "That is good economics and good business. The aim of this whole effort is to restore our rich domestic market by raising its vast consuming capacity." Complaint has been made of a few industries and of some companies that have not followed this suggestion, and evidence brought forward shows that in some cases these complaints are justified. What I said was true in June and it is true now. The first task of industry today, as it was then, is to create consuming power.

We must remember that the bulk of the market for American industry is among the 90 per cent of our people who live on wages and salaries and only 10 per cent of that market is among people who live on profits alone. No one is opposed to sensible and reasonable profits, but the morality of the case is that a great segment of our people are in actual distress and that, as between profits first and humanity afterwards and humanity first and profits afterwards, we have no room for hesitation.

Need Higher Wages.

With millions still unemployed, the power of our people to purchase and use the products of industry is still greatly curtailed. It can be increased and sustained only by striving for the lowest schedule of prices on which higher wages and increasing employment can be maintained.

Therefore, I give to industry today this challenge: It is the immediate task of industry to re-employ more people at purchasing wages and do it now. Only thus can we continue recovery and restore the balance we seek. It is worth while keeping in the front of our heads the thought that the people in this country whose incomes are less than $2,000 a year buy more than two-thirds of all the goods sold here. It is logical that if the total amount that goes in wages to this group of human beings is steadily increased, merchants, employers and investors will in the long run get more income from the increased volume of sales.

I want to speak for a moment directly to the public. In my initial statement of policy I said:

"Finally, this law is a challenge to our whole people. There is no power in America that can force against the public will such action as we require. But there is no group in America that can withstand the force of an aroused public opinion. This great co-operation can succeed only if those who bravely go forward to restore jobs have aggressive public support and those who lag are made to feel the full weight of public disapproval."

Everybody Given Part.

You all know what happened. We gave you the blue eagle as a symbol of co-operation. Its display in a shop or factory window, or upon a garment, or product, or delivery wagon, informed you tha. the firm with which you were dealing was doing its part in this great national co-operation to defeat depression. For the first time—so far as I know—all of the people in this country were given a part in making a law effective.

This is a law for the public benefit. Obviously an employer who pays blue eagle or code wages can not compete with an employer who does not. It is therefore common sense for the consuming public in their own interests, as well as for labor and for industry, to join in seeing to it that the few who think only of selfish gain be made to play the game with the overwhelming majority.

Every examination I make, and all the information I receive lead me to the inescapable conclusion that we must now consider immediate co-operation to secure increase in wages and shortening of hours. I am confident that your deliberations will lead you also to this conclusion. Reduction in hours coupled with a decrease in weekly wages will do no good at all, for it amounts merely to a forced contribution to unemployment relief by the class least able to bear it. I have never believed that we should violently impose flat, arbitrary and abrupt changes on the economic structure, but we can nevertheless work together in arriving at a common objective.

Government Can't Do All.

The government can not forever continue to absorb the whole burden of unemployment. The thing to do now is to get more people to work. Your self-governing groups are not here to devise ingenious plans to circumvent the purposes of the act. You are here in a patriotic spirit to effects these purposes. With few exceptions industry will give wholehearted compliance. It is only in the case of rare exceptions where industrial self government may fail that the government itself must and will under the law move firmly and promptly to prevent failure.

Under the code system you and I are aware that experience must be the guide for the working out of difficulties and the prevention of abuses. For example, you on code authorities are your industrial brother's keeper and especially are you the keeper of your small industrial brother. We must set up every safeguard against erasing the small operator from the economic scene.

No "Squeezing Out."

Many years ago anti-trust laws were passed and one of the primary reasons for their enactment was the protection of the little fellow against the big fellow. In many cases these laws failed to protect the little fellow. We do not want to maintain that condition. The essential provisions of the codes should check or reverse competitive methods by which the small business man was or is being squeezed out.

These same anti-trust laws must continue in their major purpose of retaining competition and preventing monopoly: It is only where these laws have prevented the cooperation to eliminate things like child labor and sweat shops, starvation wages and other unfair practices that there is justification in modifying them.

One more subject I call to your special attention. The law itself has provided for free choice of their own representatives by employes. Those two words "free choice" mean just what they say. It is obvious that the government itself not only has the right but also the duty to see, first, that employes may make a choice and, secondly, that in the making of it they shall be wholly free. I ask that the letter and the spirit of free choice be accorded to its workers by every corporation in the United States.

Seeking Experience.

We have been seeking experience in our first eight months of code making: for that same reason we have been tolerant of certain misunderstandings even when they resulted in evasions of the spirit if not of the letter of the law. Now we are moving into a period of administration when that which is law must be made certain and the letter and the spirit must be fulfilled. We can not tolerate actions which are clearly monopolistic, which wink at unfair trade practices, which fail to give to labor free choice of their representatives or which are otherwise hostile to the public interest.

In a word, we cannot tolerate abuses of economic power—abuses against labor, abuses against employers or abuses against the consuming public, whether they persist either with the aid of codes or despite their prohibitions. This does not mean that we can at once make perfect many hundred codes covering the major trades and industries of the nation, nor that we can get a mark of perfection in a day or a month. It does mean that we have arrived at the time for taking stock for correcting manifest errors for rooting out demonstrated evils.

Collapse Near Year Ago.

One year ago we were suffering and shrinking under economic pressures so intolerable that collapse was at hand. We had arrived at the day to make our choice. We made that choice. The American people responded to the call for action with eager enlistment—enlistment in the struggle against ruthless self-seeking, reckless greed and economic anarchy. We undertook by lawful, constitutional processes to reorganize a disintegrating system of production and exchange.

The methods and details of that reorganization may and will change from year to year but it is very certain that the American people understand that the purpose of the reorganization was not only to bring back prosperity. It was far deeper than that. The reorganization must be permanent for all the rest of our lives in that never again will we permit the social conditions which allowed the vast sections of our population to exist in an un-American way, which allowed a mal-distribution of wealth and of power.

The willingness of all elements to enter into the spirit of the new deal becomes more and not less evident as it goes on. As an example, I have just received a telegram from Mr. Francis M. Law, the president of the American Bankers association. In it he said: "On this your first anniversary please allow me in behalf of the country's banks to express our full confidence and our sincere desire to co-operate in your courageous efforts to bring about recovery. x x x The banking structure of the country is sound and liquid and banks have never been in stronger position to function effectively. Conditions have improved to the point where it is no longer necessary for banks to be super-liquid. There is a definite call now for banks not to extend loose credits or to make improper loans but for a most sympathetic attitude towards legitimate credit needs and for a recognition of responsibility for their proper and vital part in the program of recovery."

Think back exactly one year ago today. You know where the banks stood at that time; you know where your own business stood. That telegram is a living illustration of the progress we have made. Let us consolidate our gains and let us resolve that that consolidation shall be for the continued progress and especially for the greater happiness and well being of the American people.

How One Man Lost 22 Pounds

Mr. Herman Runkis of Detroit writes: "A few lines of thanks from a rheumatism sufferer. My first bottle of Kruschen Salts took all of the aches and swellings out of my joints—with my first bottle I went on a diet and lost 22 pounds and now feel like a new man."

To lose fat safely and quickly take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—an 85c bottle lasts 4 weeks—Get it at Harley Drug Co. or any drug store in America.

SAILOR'S WIFE IS FOUND DEAD

Husband and Two Others Questioned by Officers At San Diego.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 5—(AP)—The body of a young woman found beside a lonely road near here Sunday was identified early today by Wesley Adams, 29, a sailor on the U. S. S. Kane, as that of his wife.

Authorities said the woman had died of asphyxiation, but they had not determined whether she had committed suicide or been murdered. Supporting the latter theory, they said, was the fact the body bore welts and bruises.

Sheriffs deputies questioned Adams and two other sailors from the Kane, Joseph T. Bridges and Emerson Miller. They said they would release Adams, but planned to turn over Bridges and Miller to the commanding officers of the Kane which is leaving port for a few days.

Deputies Boyd Moran and Blake Mason said Adams told them that Bridges and Miller were at his home Saturday night and that he "got rather drunk." Earlier in the evening, he was quoted as saying, he and his wife had quarreled and she had announced her intention of staying with friends.

Harvey Teter, Former Lincoln Man, Dies

Harvey Teter, 78, for more than 30 years a resident of Lincoln prior to moving to Omaha about eight years ago, died Sunday morning at his home there after a long illness, according to word received here. He is survived by his wife and seven children. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed but interment will be at Wyuka cemetery.

Driver Wrecks Car In Avoiding Collision

A car driven by Francis Johnson, 825 South Twenty-fourth street, was badly wrecked at 1:17 a. m., Monday when the driver was forced to turn it into a curb to avoid colliding with another car which was coming up the street without lights. The driver of the second car did not stop.

DIES AT FUNERAL.

DILLER, Neb., March 5—Mrs. A. O. Richardson of this vicinity died suddenly at the John Crone home here where she had gone to attend the funeral of the small son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kunecke. Heart trouble was given as the cause of death.

Early Adjournment Hopes Surrendered In Congress Halls

Huge Legislative Job On Hand With Many Controversies.

WASHINGTON, March 5—(AP)—Democratic leaders conceded today that all hopes for early adjournment of congress had been cast aside in the face of the hefty Roosevelt program pending before two increasingly restless chambers.

As congress turned into its tenth week of the regular session, almost a score of important and controversy-packed legislative problems were in the preliminary stages of enactment.

Resistance Stirs.

A strong undercurrent of resistance to a number of administration propositions, including veterans and money legislation, lapped around President Roosevelt's latest request—reciprocal tariff treaty powers. Senator Vandenberg, republican, attacked the proposal, terming it "so bald a delegation of power to the executive and so abject a surrender of legislative prerogatives that it seems to lack even the color of constitutionality."

While the senate resumed consideration of the half-billion naval construction bill—with a vote assured tomorrow—the house awaited today the big annual supply bill for the war department.

To End Exchange Hearing.

Chairman Rayburn of the house interstate commerce committee, plans to terminate hearing on the stock exchange bill this week and turn to President Roosevelt's projected communications commission legislation.

Airmail, commodity exchange, cotton and sugar control, Philippine independence and tax measures are in the offing, while a house committee digs into army spending. Investigators had word today that orders for $5,000,000 of military airplanes were rushed through in the last three days of the Hoover administration.

Deaths In U. S.

(By the Associated Press.)

NEW YORK—Mrs. Ethel Bryant Powers Lea, 58, widow of Gen. Homer Lea, chief of staff for the Chinese republican army and military advisor of the late Dr. Sun Yat Sen, first president of the republic.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—John Alden, 73, a descendant of the John Alden who came to America on the Mayflower. He was associate editor of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

PORTLAND, Me.—James E. Hassett, former American league umpire.

NEW YORK—William J. Gallagher, 65, who as the operator of "Billy Gallagher's" restaurant was said to have introduced singing waiters as entertainers on Broadway.

HOUSTON, Tex.—G. J. Palmer, 63, vice president and business manager of the Houston Chronicle.

SENATE REPORT REVEALS LARGE PAY OF BANKERS

Ten Got Salary of $100,000 or More During Year of Stress.

WASHINGTON, March 5—(AP)—During one of the most trying years in American bank history, a year in which the nation saw an unprecedented bank "holiday," ten bankers were drawing annual salaries of $100,000 or more, and 370 others were receiving more than $25,000.

The disclosure of bank salaries for the year ending last June was made today by the senate banking committee.

Names of the officials were included in a bulging report submitted to the senate by the federal reserve board in response to a resolution adopted last spring at the request of Senator Costigan, democrat, Colorado.

H. C. McEldowney, president of the Union Trust Co. of Pittsburgh, and W. W. Aldrich, chairman of the governing board of Chase National bank, were the highest paid bank officers in the United States, the report indicated.

The Pittsburgh banker received $165,000 during the year. His rate of compensation at the start of the year was $180,000 but later was cut to $120,000.

Aldrich Highest Paid.

Aldrich's compensation, meanwhile, was rising. He received $151,744 during the year, but at the end of the period his salary rate was $175,000, making him the highest paid banker in the United States.

This was a far cry, however, from the compensation received by his predecessor, Albert H. Wiggin. The banking committee's own investigation had disclosed that Wiggin's peak salary was $250,000 a year and that in some years his total compensation was almost $300,000.

The highest salary in the National City bank, where Charles C. Mitchell once drew more than $1,000,000 a year, was paid to Gordon S. Rentschler, president. He received $125,000, plus a bonus of $5,550.

Others Drew Large Pay.

Other bankers who drew $100,000 or more during the year included:

Charles S. McCain, chairman of the board, Chase National bank salary, $126,488, bonus $2,040.

George W. Davison, chirman of the board, Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., salary $100,000.

Percy H. Johnston, president, Chemical Bank & Trust Co., of New York, salary $125,000.

Walter E. Frew, chairman, Corn Exchange Bank & Trust Co., of New York, salary, $100,000, bonus $2,682.

Charles H. Sabin, chairman, Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, salary $95,333, bonus, $5,586.

W. C. Potter, president, Guaranty Trust Co., salary $95,333, bonus $5,735.

Harvey D. Gibson, chairman and president Manufacturers Trust Co. New York, salary $125,000.

In addition to Aldrich and McCain, the Chase National bank reported seven officers drawing from $50,000 to $90,000 and 63 vice presidents getting from $11,500 to $45,000.

The report also showed that Charles G. Dawes, former vice president, was getting only $13,300 as chairman of the board of the City National Bank & Trust Co. of Chicago, although Philips R. Clark, president, was receiving $33,000. Dawes also got a bonus of $560.

Costes Safe In Germany While Search Started

French Flier Landed to Avoid Fog; Friends Feared Crash.

MUNSTER, Germany, March 5—(AP)—Dieudonne Costes, known as the "Lindbergh of France," whom the world feared lost after he landed here Saturday because of fog, took off at noon today for Copenhagen.

Costes did not know until four hours before his departure today that he had been the object of a wide search after he failed to complete on schedule a flight from Paris to Copenhagen late Saturday.

Hit Fog Near Bremen.

A few hours out of Paris after taking off alone in his small private plane at 12:15 p. m., Saturday, the famous French airman encountered fog over Bremen, Germany. He headed into Munster to await better weather.

Apparently he thought nothing of the matter other than that it was an inconvenience on his business trip. But this morning he was astonished to learn that planes were searching out of Copenhagen and that grave fears were held that he had crashed and was killed.

Regrets Causing Worry.

"I didn't discover until this morning that I was supposed to be missing," he said before the takeoff, obviously regretful that concern had been aroused.

Costes leaped into international renown, when, in September, 1930, he and Maurice Bellonte landed their scarlet plane—the Question Mark—at New York, completing the first non-stop westward flight from Paris to New York in 27 hours, 17 minutes.

JOHNSON, ALBERT ARE RECOMMENDED

COLUMBUS, Neb., March 5—(AP)—George E. Johnson of Lincoln, former state engineer, and Fred Albert of Columbus have been recommended by the Columbus labor union to the Loup River Public Power district for appointment as engineers for the $7,300,000 Columbus power project. The union, in a meeting Sunday night, urged appointment of Johnson and Albert because they are "friendly to labor."

LINCOLN PAIR WEDS

FALLS CITY, Neb., March 5—Miss Marjorie Black, 20, and Walter W. Newcomer, 23, both of Lincoln, were married here Saturday by County Judge Virgil Falloon.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

Saves Good Money! No Cooking!

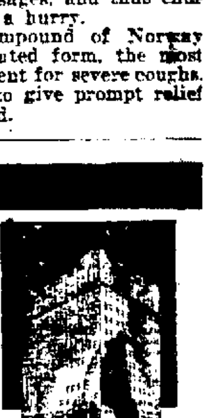

If you want the best cough remedy that money can buy, mix it at home. It costs very little, yet it's the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. To make syrup, use 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money—a real family supply. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, clears the air passages, and thus ends a severe cough in a hurry.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, the most reliable healing agent for severe coughs. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

ONLY THE CENTER LEAVES FOR Luckies

1 Luckies do not use the top leaves ... because top leaves are under-developed ... they are not ripe ... They would give a harsh smoke.

2 Luckies use only the center leaves of the finest tobacco plants ... because the center leaves are the mildest, tenderest, smoothest.

3 Luckies do not use the bottom leaves, because bottom leaves are inferior in quality. They grow close to the ground, and are tough, coarse and always sandy.

Lucky Strike presents the Metropolitan Opera Company

Saturday at 1:50 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, over Red and Blue Networks of NBC, Lucky Strike will broadcast the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York in the complete Operas "Pagliacci" and "Salome."

This picture tells better than words the merit of your Lucky Strike. Luckies use only the center leaves. Not the top leaves, because those are under-developed—not ripe. Not the bottom leaves, because those are inferior in quality—they grow close to the ground and are tough, coarse and always sandy. The center leaves are the mildest leaves, the finest in quality. These center leaves are cut into long, even strands and are fully packed into each and every Lucky—giving you a cigarette that is always round, firm, completely filled—no loose ends. Is it any wonder that Luckies are so truly mild and smooth? And in addition, you know, "It's toasted"—for throat protection, for finer taste.

State Board Gives O.K. to Omaha Basket Game

Decision Grants Red and Black Permit to Play Creighton Prep

The last obstacle in the staging of the Lincoln-Creighton Prep basketball game at Omaha next Saturday night was removed Monday morning with the announcement the Nebraska High School Athletic association control board had "authorized the game." Secretary Walter I. Black conducted a telegraphic poll of the board members to ascertain their reaction toward the scheduling of the game.

Lincoln In It for Money.

Omaha fans are ballyhooing the Lincoln-Creighton Prep game as involving the "unofficial state championship." Lincoln school officials maintain they were drawn into the game because of the chance for a "big money" gate which might go toward helping Lincoln high athletic finances, said to be in "a bad way this season."

Meantime, the Lincoln officials tendered no explanation as to their failure to schedule two games with the Young Bluejays—one in Lincoln and the other in Omaha—thus to insure a substantially larger contribution to the athletic fund.

Incidentally, the information comes from reliable sources that Coach Stuart Baller of the Red and Black squad was opposed to playing a single game with Creighton Prep on the Omaha court. The scheduling of the game, in the face of his opposition, means that Creighton conducted its negotiations with the "higher-ups" of the Lincoln school and the wishes of the coach were disregarded.

DOUBLE TRIUMPH IN JAYHAWK BAG

Kansas Wins Big 6 Titles In Both Basketball, Indoor Track.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 5—(AP)—The Jayhawkers of the University of Kansas made a twin killing in Big Six sports events last week-end, winning their fourth straight conference basketball championship and the indoor track and field title as well. The other conference championship at stake, wrestling, went to the University of Oklahoma's grapplers.

Coach Phog Allen's proteges hung a 39-25 defeat on Oklahoma at Norman Friday night, after having drubbed the Sooners in an exhibition Thursday, 33-26.

The Friday night game, in which Ray Ebling, brilliant sophomore forward, gained the individual scoring leadership by pouring in nine field goals and half a dozen free throws, gave Kansas the title again. Ebling's point total of 112 for nine games probably will be swelled to a better figure than any scoring champion has made in recent years, as he has a game to go. Ervyl Bross of Oklahoma, in second place, has 108 points to show for his 10 conference games.

Only One More Game.

The only remaining team decision will be reached in the Missouri-Kansas game at Lawrence Tuesday night. It will determine whether the Tigers will wind up in the runner-up spot or share it with Oklahoma. The Sooners finished second last year and Missouri third.

Iowa State dragged Kansas State into a tie for last place by handing the Wildcats a 37-16 thumping at Ames last week in their season finale.

In the conference track and field carnival at Columbia Saturday, Glenn Cunningham, Kansas' great miler, set up new standards of 1:57.8 and 4:20.3 in the half-mile and mile runs, and helped out as anchor man on the victorious Jayhawker relay team, which nosed out Oklahoma, winner of second place.

New Record by Lambertus.

Heye Lambertus, Nebraska's national champion hurdler, stepped over five hurdles in the 60-yard low barrier race in 6.8 seconds for a new record which may be put up for official recognition as a world mark for the "hybrid" obstacle race. The old conference record was 7 seconds flat, made by Hager of Iowa State and equalled by Lambertus in 1932 and 1933. Coach Ward Haylett of Kansas State said, however, Lambertus had run the same race in 6.4 against his Wildcats last year.

Bart Ward was Oklahoma's big star. He won the 440-yard dash for the third straight year and also took the broad jump.

Team totals were: Kansas, 41.4; Oklahoma, 35.3; Nebraska, 22.25; Iowa State, 17.5; Kansas State 8.85, and Missouri, 6.5.

Oklahoma and Iowa State each took three individual wrestling matches at Columbia, but the Sooners won out by scoring more falls, which earned an extra point each, and on seconds and thirds.

The most popular boxing weight at the United States Naval Academy is 145 pounds. Twenty-eight Middies at that weight tried out for the team. Altogether, 125 men turned out for boxing this season.

All Heavyweights On Tuesday's Card

With a pair of Pacific coast maulers, George Koverly, Hollywood, and Whitey Grove, Spokane, Wash., as the main-eventers in a finish match, the Lincoln infantry unit's wrestling show here Tuesday night at the Marigold brings in another all-heavyweight card for Capital City mat fans.

The semi-windup brings Mike Markoff, Russia, against Baron Ben Ginsberg, New York City, in a 30-minute time-limit.

Harry Cadell, Kansas City, and George Nogul, Chicago, are slated to do the muscle bending in the opening preliminary.

NEEDLE RACKET IN DISCARD NOW

"Horse Doctoring" Trick Declared Passe On Florida Tracks.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

MIAMI, Fla., March 5—(INS)—The "player," a purely technical term, meaning sap, has never got such a run for his money as he has down here at what the racing writers like to refer to as beautiful Hialeah during the last few weeks of horse racing. There have been times, all too numerous, when Hialeah was beautiful to the eye and not to the budget. There also have been times when the player has wondered vaguely what it was that caused the racing writers to use words like beautiful, when the only possible word was something that Webster forgot.

But that was the time immediately before the needle or pop-gun became unfashionable. It also was the time before the federal agents began sidling up to race track men in the midst of a crowd of friends and insinuating, in a still, small voice, that the chief would like to see them down at headquarters.

They've Quit Needling.

Not to be too vulgar about it, a couple of the boys were pinched for several reasons, including the possession of "heat" or narcotics, and after a few cases of this kind, the boys kind of got together and decided that the government men, while thoughtless and unreasonable, were at the very least consistent. In other words, they came to feel that the government men really ought to know better, but for some reason simply did not.

Anyhow, the boys aren't "needling" the horses any more. There isn't a hop-head in all the stables out at Hialeah and, while the government is strictly wrong, as usual, not understanding in its bungling way that a horse is the man's best friend, even when stimulated or needled, the man in the stag line is getting his first break in years.

It has even gone so far that a man can pick a winner without taking the pre-medical course at Johns Hopkins university. In other words, the government men just haven't any idea of the disorder and misunderstanding they are causing. They've even forced horse racing to be on the level.

STRING UPSETS IN PREP CIRCLE

Final Week of Hi Basket Season Brings Series of Surprises.

BY GREGG M'BRIDE.

The 1934 playing schedule for Nebraska high school basketball teams wound up last week with a string of upsets which pomises some lively competition in the class A carnivals this week and the state championship meeting in Lincoln, March 14-17.

Two of the surprises were at the expense of teams selected as qualified for the state championship tourney without participation in regional play. Crete high slapped an 18-15 defeat on Grand Island and Fremont hung a 14-10 trimming on Columbus.

Crete's victory over Grand Island tossed the Mid-State league race into a scramble, with Coach Dwight Thomas' Hastings Tigers emerging from the heap in possession of the Mid-State championship. The result was another example of how the basketball dopesheet sometimes misleads an enthusiastic fan. During the season, Grand Island handled Hastings with comparative ease. Hastings, in turn, raced through Crete without much trouble and then along comes Crete to roll back the Third Citys in the last game of the season.

Fremont Serious Factor.

Fremont's victory over Columbus on the latter's court moves Coach Clyde Knapp's Dodge county flippers to the front as serious bidders for state honors if they can get by their regional tournament. Crete's stock, of course, was boosted by the Grand Island win.

Three teams lowered their colors for the first time this season—Blue Hill, Ingham and Sidney. Hastings high shoved Blue Hill aside, 27-15; Moorefield stopped the Ingham winning streak, 24-21, and Chappell ended Sidney's parade of victories, 29-21.

Lincoln and Creighton Prep, leaders in the city circles, continued their fine records with impressive wins. Coach Stuart Baller's Lincoln five rapped Beatrice, 46-26, and then repeated a previous victory over Jackson high, 38-13. Coach Eddie Hickey's Creighton Prep five swamped Omaha South, 48-16, and cleared the Benson hurdle, 28-9. The victories tuned the capital city five and young Jays for their all-important game at Omaha next Saturday.

Crown to College View.

Greater Lincoln league circles were ready to crown College View champion following the unexpected 19-18 victory by Havelock at Jackson expense. College View kept its winning gait by romping over Cathedral, 19-11, and then picking up two games on a southern trip, 30-22 over Wymore and 24-18 over Fairbury. Havelock high smothered Teachers 39-1, and Bethany humbled the Pedagogues, 44-9. Waverly looked good in a 24-19 win over Ashland.

Coach Ed Pallett's Hebron five riveted down the Southern Nebraska conference championship by beating Geneva, 24-13, and then dropped a non-conference game to Beatrice, 19-23.

York closed its season with a 25-20 win over Norfolk; Clay Center beat Geneva, 38-29; Milford nipped Fairmont, 20-17; Liberty high shone in a 38-27 victory over Wymore, and Western beat Wilber, 26-22.

Curtis Aggies sewed up the Southwest Nebraska conference title by winning, 25-16, from Lexington. Gothenburg surprised Cozad, 24-20, and Lexington trimmed Overton, 25-17.

Minden beat Franklin, 14-7, to win the Republican Valley championship and Red Willow rallied to edge out Holbrook, 21-19, in an extra period game which decided Mid-Valley laurels. Wauneta swamped Imperial, 41-10; Indianola beat Cambridge, 19-16, and St. Mary's of Grand Island upset St. Patrick's of North Platte, 19-17.

Sidney Finally Stopped.

Sidney high, although losing to Chappell for its first loss of the season, beat Minatare, 32-31, to make certain of the Western Nebraska conference crown. Alliance beat Scottsbluff, 32-10; Bayard trimmed Scottsbluff, 27-15, and defeated Bridgeport, 24-13. Gering cleared the Bridgeport hurdle, 19-12, and Minatare outlasted Mitchell, 12-3.

Gordon high clinched the Northwest Nebraska league title by beating Hemingford, 39-9. Liberty Consolidated beat Morrill, 18-12.

In the southeast, Falls City gave additional evidence of rapid improvement by stampeding the Tecumseh Chieftains, 62-23. Plattsmouth drubbed Wahoo, 23-7; Auburn walloped Pawnee City, 30-12, and Nebraska City won a well played game from Peru Prep, 27-20.

Coach Norman Fuhlrodt's West Pointers with Center Elliott blazing the trail, are celebrating a season of 13 wins in 14 games and the Tri-Valley championship. The Cadets beat Wahoo last week, 28-21. Tilden trimmed St. Edward, 27-20, and Hartington beat Wayne, 32-12, and then dropped a 29-27 contest at South Sioux City. Battle Creek bowled over Stanton, 20-8; Wisner passed Pender, 21-7; Meadow Grove downed Brunswick, 38-13.

Creighton lost to Ewing, 16-18, and beat Verdigre 35-21. Pierce bested Norfolk, 22-17, and Coach Fred Schneider's high-scoring Pilger five romped over Schuyler, 39-13.

Ord looked good in beating Kearney 31-17. Genoa spilled Central City, 33-10, and Anselmo rolled over Callaway, 41-25.

Dodge Bristles Up To Italian Invaders

NEW YORK, March 5—(INS)—Horace E. Dodge of Detroit, who last November resigned from the American Power Boat association, today announced that he had reconsidered his refusal to compete in the international motorboat races, now being held in Florida.

Dodge declared that he would drive his famous Delphine VI in the two-day regatta starting next Saturday at Palm Beach. The Detroit sportsman will compete against Italy's team of lighter craft drivers. Dodge said he had reconsidered his decision not to drive in Florida because he believes his boats will give Italy stronger opposition than any other American craft.

GAMES THIS WEEK.

Monday, March 5—Cathedral at Bethany. Wednesday to Saturday, March 7 to 10—Class A regional tournament at Wesleyan, with College View, Jackson, Havelock and Bethany entered.

College View high retained its Greater Lincoln league championship by scoring a 19-11 triumph over Cathedral Tuesday night while Jackson, previously tied with the southsiders, lost a narrow 19-18 verdict to Havelock to fall a full game behind the Robson clan in the percentage tables. It was Cliff Case's successful free throw after the game was aver which broke an 18-18 tie, Wayne Davis having been charged with a faul just as the final gun roared.

Havelock's victory, combined with another over Teachers by a 39-1 count, pulled the Shoptowners into third place. Bethany and Cathedral also took picks on the luckless Teachers, winning by 44-9 and 1914.

Cathedral Class B Winner.

Outside the league, the highlight was Cathedral's copping first honors in the class B district tournament, defeating Pleasant Dale, Greenwood and Rokeby. The Obrist clan also downed St. Cecelia at Hastings. College View beat Fairbury and Wymore, but Lincoln walloped Jackson for the second time this year.

Only one league game is booked this week, with Cathedral at Bethany tonight. The latter part of the week finds the four top teams fighting in the class A regional at Wesleyan, with Jackson meeting Tecumseh, Bethany playing Milford, College View tackling Exeter and Havelock scheduled to play the winner of the Exeter-College View brawl.

George Scott of College View finished with 137 points in 12 games, an average of more than 11 points per game. Leonard Walters of College View passed Martin of Jackson for third. Tonight's game may see Frank Unland of Bethany climb into the first 10, being only a few points behind four of the top scorers.

Brenner of Lincoln Top Man In Singles

OMAHA, March 5—(AP)—Outstate bowlers in the state tournament in progress here covered themselves with glory in competition Sunday afternoon and night.

George Brenner of Lincoln took first place in the singles with a 688 score and Harry Page and Stan Maloney of Grand Island, bagged first place in the doubles with 1,264. Page had games of 48, 203 and 216 for 667 and Maloney scored 199, 205 and 194 for 598. Page later took first place in the all-events with a score of 1,925.

At yesterday's election by the state association, Dick Winkelman of Fremont was elected president and Herb Baker of Beatrice was reelected secretary-treasurer. The 1935 tourney will go to either Fremont or Lincoln. Decision on this point will be made later by the officers.

CATHEDRAL HI AT BETHANY TONIGHT

Bethany's hopes for a clear-cut claim to fourth place in the final Greater Lincoln league standings hinge upon the ability of the Clarkmen to turn back Cathedral tonight in the final game of the regular season for both clubs. The game will start at 8 o'clock on the Maroon maples. Cathedral won the initial meeting between the two clubs, 27-12. A Cathedral win would put the Bluebirds in a tie with Bethany for fourth place.

Bethany's lineup likely will be Alber and Baldwin, forwards; Unland, center; Preston and Staten, guards, while Father Obrist likely will nominate Malone and McManus, forwards; Dick Beilharz, center; Nick Beilharz and McDonnell, guards, to start for Cathedral.

KINGFISH AGAIN IN GARDEN RING

Levinsky Slated Return To Glove Wars On Friday Fight.

NEW YORK, March 5—(AP)—King Levinsky gets a new chance to redeem himself and help Madison Square Garden in its quest for a new heavyweight challenger this week.

Picked by the Garden for a build-up campaign designed to send him into the ring against Champion Primo Carnera in the summer, Levinsky tackles the hard-hitting youngster, Walter Neusel, in the big Eighth avenue fight palace Friday night. He will need to win decisively if he is to be of any real assistance to the Garden.

The rough and tumble Chicagoan was no particular fistic bargain in his last start at the Garden. He tried to box with Charley Massera, young and clever Pittsburgher, for seven rounds, with somewhat ludicrous results, and then went back to his own slam-bang style just in time to receive a disputed decision in 10 rounds.

Ross Fights Frisco Boy.

Otherwise, the national boxing program this week is marked only by a 10-round "title" match between Barney Ross of Chicago and Frankie Klick of San Francisco in the latter's home town tonight.

Between them, Ross and Klick hold three championships of sorts, but Ross' synthetic junior welterweight title will be the only one at stake. Ross, of course, is the world's lightweight champion, while Klick is recognized in a few states as junior lightweight titleholder, the reward of his recent knockout victory over Kid Chocolate.

Back to Scene First Fights.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5—(AP)—A little more than four years ago a frail appearing youngster outboxed another preliminary boy here and received $50 for doing so.

Tonight Barney Ross of Chicago returns to the scene of his third professional fight with the lightweight championship in tow and his share of the purse for meeting Frankie Klick in a 10-rounder will be $5,000 or more, if the gate receipts run to the figures expected.

Between the two they possess three titles, one legitimate and two of the synthetic variety. Klick beat Kid Chocolate to claim the junior lightweight title. Ross whipped Tony Canzoneri for the lightweight championship and at the same time took over the latter's junior welterweight crown, recognized in this state and in Illinois. Only the junior welterweight title will be at stake tonight.

Ross, who is expected in at 137 pounds, one more than Klick, has been made a 2 1-2 to 1 favorite to win.

Federals Dated Play, Midland at Fremont

Midland college fans are celebrating their fourth consecutive Nebraska College Athletic conference basketball title this week. The Lutherans sewed up the championship last week by walloping Wesleyan, 41-23, and York, 41-21. Doane made certain of second place by winnig a 28-24 game at Hastings.

The Lutherans will play the Federal Tires of Lincoln at Fremont Tuesday night. The probable lineups:

NORTH HIGH MAN VALLEY PING-PONG

OMAHA, Neb., March 5—Sig North of Lincoln is the Missouri Valley ping-pong champion. North won the title last night by defeating Ralph Reed, Lincoln, 21-12, 21-13, 21-10.

The tournament brought an all-Lincoln semi-finals with North defeating Hyman Rosenfeld, 21-11, 21-18, 21-16, and Reed winning from Wilbur Haegen, 18-21, 21-12, 21-14, 22-20.

North and Haegen, crack Lincoln team won the doubles crown by defeating John Tatom and Ray Phelps, Omaha in the finals 22-24, 25-23, 21-18, 21-17, and beating Ben Patterson and Hyman Rosenfeld, Lincoln, in the semifinals, 19-21 21-18, 21-17, 20-22, 21-14. Tatom and Phelps won from Wendell Woods and Charles Eberline, Lincoln, 22-20, 21-17, 21-11.

Ralph Reed Lincoln, teamed with Sylvian Tibbetts, St Paul, to win the mixed doubles championship by defeating Helen Ovenden, Chicago and Charles Davies, Omaha, 11-21, 21-19, 21-15, 16-21, 21-17. Helen Ovenden, Chicago, captured the women's singles title by beating Anita Currep, Omaha, 21-12, 21-13, 21-10.

Blazing Ben Winner First Race of Year

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5—Ben Eastman, the former Stanford university quarter-mile star, turned in his first victory of the year yesterday in the dual track meet between the University of San Francisco and the Olympic club.

Eastman, wearing Olympian colors, toured the 440 in 49.0 seconds. He easily defeated Les Wisler, promising quarter-miler of University of San Francisco. Sam Eastman, Ben's brother, was third.

Elmo Ferrari captured the 100 and 220-yard dashes. His double victory gave University of San Francisco the meet 68 11-12 to 61 1-12.

T. Loughran Persists Max Baer Has Goods Put Primo On Shelf

BY BILL CORUM.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 5—(INS)—I had tea yesterday on the terrace of the Miami-Biltmore with Hervey Allen and Tommy Loughran. You will remember Loughran as the man who stayed the distance with Primo Carnera. Mr. Allen is the man who stayed the distance with "Anthony Adverse." Loughran took his tea with lemon and two sugars. Allen took his out of a beer bottle.

Hied Himself to Bermuda.

Mr. Allen is a large man who talks in a voice not unlike Al Smith's and who probebly is the most astounded person in the world at having written a book. He comes from Pittsburgh, where smoke gets in the rye.

President Roosevelt once said that you can say anything in 500 words. This made it patriotically impossible for Allen to write "Anthony Adverse" in the United States, so he went to Bermuda. There he rented himself a home, bought himself a cow, and sat down to milk a few million beautifully chosen words out of what must undoubtedly be one of the great writing minds of these mad times.

Although Mr. Allen was at one time a professor at Columbia university, he hasn't what might be called a professional mind. You could tell that because he was deeply interested in the selection of Miss Florida, which was taking place in the court yard nearby.

Blonde Gets the Nod.

Miss Florida was being chosen by a jury composed of Harry Richman, who sings with both hands over his heart; Miss June Knight, who trains Max Baer; Miss Claire Windsor, of the silent drama, and a Mr. William Cunningham, who writes for the Boston sport pages.

The eyes of the judges finally came to rest on a blonde, thus saving the good name of the state of Florida for another year.

All this interested our literary lion no little and he pronounced it a typical American spectacle. He also felt that it served to create an interest in beauty.

Allen also prophesied that Primo Carnera would be the last of the monster men in the prize ring.

"That type," he says, "appeals chiefly to the cave-man instinct in woman and that appeal loses strength in direct ratio to the distance civilization gets away from the cave-man period."

He did have the idea, however, that Carnera would be a difficult man to beat and likely would hold the championship for a long time. It is odd how smart men have this feeling about the Ambling Alp. Arthur Brisbane holds to the same view.

Loughran Says It.

But Loughran, who has been closer to the subject than either of the gentlemen, disagrees emphatically.

"I have no feeling against Carnera because he beat me, or even because he gave me the works in doing it," said Tom. "I fought him wrong by trying to mix with him and deserved what I got for my bad judgment. But, as sure as we sit here, he's got a tin chin and you can't miss him with a right hand. If Baer trains at all for the fight, he will knock him deader than Gene Tunney's favorite author, who, as I recall, is a man named Shakespeare."

With this opinion, the writer, who never has been sold on Da Preem as a fighter, must put in 100 per cent. Loughran made the big fellow's knees buckle repeatedly the other night and once crossed his eyes until he looked like Ben Turpin, and any man Loughran can stagger a Dempsey must drop. Or so I see it.

Tommy Turns to Literature.

Gerry Swinehart, who was tossing the tea party, asked Loughran if he had read Anthony Adverse.

"I am reading it right now," replied the Philadelphia squire, "and I am finding it so fascinating that I don't want to finish it. It's a book that you don't want to put down."

"Yeah," agreed Mr. Quentin Reynolds, who is also an author, "it's a book that you can't put down and get through with in one lifetime."

"But," protested Allen, who has a sense of humor, "that won't stop Loughran. Carnera couldn't stop him. I know I can't. I know my limitations."

So it went throughout the pouring. Just an afternoon of light badinage, that's what it was.

High School Cagemen Again Facing Fire In Pre-Tourney Compet

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

Pairings for the 16 games involving the 32 district class B winners were announced Monday morning by Walter I. Black, secretary of the Nebraska High School Athletic association. The games will be played this week-end and the 16 winners will be eligible to compete in the state class B championships at the University of Nebraska coliseum in Lincoln next week. The pairings:

Chadron Prep vs. St. Patrick's (Sidney) at Alliance.
Holmesville vs. Hubbell at Beatrice.
Bellevue vs Brainard and Mead vs. Belwood at Fremont.
Stockham vs. Spaulding Academy at Grand Island.
Belvidere vs Bladen at Hastings.
Boelus vs Sumner at Kearney.
Cathedral (Lincoln) vs. Goehner and Eagle vs Dorchester at Lincoln.
Holbrook vs Moorefield and Bertrand vs. Stratton at McCook.
Stella vs Avoca at Nebraska City.
Santee Indians vs. Oakdale at Norfolk.
Venango vs. St. Patrick's (North Platte) at North Platte.
Hyannis vs. Anselmo at Mullen.

Only Five Repeaters.

The district class B tournaments, which played to large crowds last week assured a new crop of teams for the state class B championships to be played in Lincoln next week.

Only five of the 32 class B district winners of 1933 were able to repeat last week. This quintet includes Avoca, Hyannis, Oakdale, Stockham and Sumner.

Duncan, the 1933 class B champion, went out in the semi-finals of the Columbus tourney and Swanton, 1933 runnerup, lost in the semi-finals of the Wilber meet. Stockham high was the only 1933 semi-finalists to come through last week.

Of the 32 district winners of last week, only three coasted through their tournament assignments in easy fashion, the other 29 teams having been held to margins of less than 10 points at some time during the championship play.

Five One-Point Games.

Five of the district winners (Waterbury, Bladen, Hyannis, Hubbell, Eagle) had games of one-point margins while four more (Holmesville, Winnebago, Spalding Academy, Bertrand) won games by two-point margin. Winnebago and Spalding Academy each were forced extra periods to continue their advance toward the district trophy.

Teams coasting through district competition were Stockham, Dorchester and Chadron Prep.

The class B playoff games assigned to Lincoln will be played at the Nebraska Wesleyan gymnasium Friday and Saturday, according to Principal R. S. Mickle of Jackson high, director of the Lincoln meet.

Cathedral will meet Goehner Friday at 7 p. m., and Eagle will play Dorchester Saturday at 7 p. m.

Mack Gives Okay To Ex-State Leaguer

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 5—(AP)—Of all the rookies rambling around the Philadelphia Athletics' training camp, the only pitcher who seems assured of a place on the team is Harry Matuzak, who was in the Texas league last year after graduating from the Nebraska state league.

Connie Mack, veteran manager of the A's, says Matuzak "is a real find and is sure to help us."

BALLER TOSSERS STILL UNBEATEN

Lincoln High Rounds Out Regular Season With String 17 Wins.

Finis was written across Lincoln high's regular basketball schedule, following the capturing of its seventeenth consecutive victory of the campaign Saturday night at Jackson, where the Ballermen were triumphant, 38-13.

On the basis of its sensational record, during which it won over all opponents but Abraham Lincoln of Council Bluffs by at least a seven-point margin, the Red and Black cage machine was selected from the state-at-large as one of the four teams eligible for the state class A tournament in Lincoln next week. As a result, the Ballermen are not required to go through the tedious grind of regional competition this week.

Having cleared their two toughest barriers on the trail to an all-conquering campaign the previous week, the Ballermen breezed through the final hurdles last week when they forced Beatrice and Jackson to salaam before the hoop onslaught led by Bradley, Parsons and Amen.

Scoring Honors to Bradley.

Averaging 12 points per game during the 17-game schedule, Bradley, Lincoln's 6 foot 3 inch pivot ace, was awarded the high scoring crown with a grand total of 208 markers for the regular season. In successive battles with Abe Lincoln, Grand Island and Beatrice, the husky center shoved 61 tallies through the netting. An aggregate of 186 points gave Parsons the runner-up position.

Bradley, biggest night occurred in the recent Red and Black-Abe Lincoln meeting, when he outshot the Lynx wonder, Dick Shaw, to garner 24 points. Shaw, however, led the Missouri Valley conference scorers with 112 while Bradley and Parsons finished in that order.

Individual Point Table.

Bradley	208	Saunders	18
Parsons	186	Campbell	16
Amen	71	Dean	9
Mason	59	Trosper
Richards	44	Fate	3
Plock	21	Mills	2

Team record—Won, 17; lost, 0. Points—641; opponents, 332.

Spring Camp Briefs.

CHICAGO WHITE SOX.

PASADENA, Cal., March 5—(INS)—After a week of spring practices, the Chicago White Sox today booked the Los Angeles baseball team of the Pacific Coast league for an exhibition game next Sunday. A second contingent of Sox, including George Earnshaw, arrived yesterday. Earnshaw appeared to be in good condition. Ted Lyons has taken on weight.

CHICAGO CUBS.

AVALON Catalina Island, Cal, March 5—(INS)—Citizens of this island turned out today in full force to welcome the Chicago Cubs here for the spring training grind. "Woody" English remained in Los Angeles to receive treatment for an inflamed eye. The squad was cheered by reports that Babe Herman in Los Angeles had signed his contract at a conference with President William M. Walker and eagerly awaited the Babe's arrival today to confirm the report. Charlie Root and Billy Herman have not yet signed.

NEW YORK GIANTS.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 5—(INS)—Observers at the camp of the New York Giants here today were agreed that the world's champions are almost a sure bet to be the best conditioned club in the big leagues when the season opens next month. The team has been working out in the bright Miami sunshine for almost two weeks now and the regulars to a man are fit and rarin' to go. Most of the other clubs who have pitched camp in the southland, on the other hand, are only in the first stages of their training grind.

NEW YORK YANKEES.

ST PETERSBURG, Fla, March 5—(INS)—Vernon Gomez, star left-hander of the New York Yankees, arrived at the club's training camp here today and let out a roar of indignation that could be heard far out over the gulf stream. Gomez is dissatisfied over the terms offered him and he doesn't care who knows it. Gomez announced to all and sundry that he hasn't signed his contract yet and won't don a uniform until a more satisfactory salary arrangement is offered him.

BROOKLYN DODGERS.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 5—(INS)—Pity the poor Brooklyn Dodgers! Last year the team did its spring training in the swank of Miami Beach but prosperity apparently didn't agree with them and this semester we find them ensconced in one of the quietest little towns in the state. The simple life obviously doesn't agree with all the boys but they are determined to make the best of it nevertheless. All of the regulars are on the scene and Manager Casey Stengel was scheduled to send them through their opening paces this afternoon.

PITTSBURGH PIRATES.

PASO ROBLES, Cal. March 5—(INS)—With Larry French, southpaw pitching ace, no longer a holdout, the Pittsburgh Pirates' battermen went to work in earnest today. While the pitchers and catchers were loosening joints in the California sunshine the second contingent of players left Pittsburgh for camp.

PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 5—(INS)—Connie Mack prepared today to fill the first base position so far left vacant by Jimmy Foxx, who is having a salary argument with the Athletics. If Foxx refuses to sign, Mack announced he will use Lou Finney at first base. George Detore will hold down third base if Pinky Higgins, another holdout, fails to agree to terms.

WASHINGTON SENATORS.

BILOXI, Miss., March 5—(INS)—The vanguard of the Washington Senators was in camp today and the full squad of regular ball players is expected by tomorrow ready to start spring training. Cliff Bolton, second-string catcher, is the only serious holdout. Owner Clark Griffith has ordered Bolton to report by tomorrow night or consider himself suspended.

RACE DRIVERS IN TRIPLE TRAGEDY

Three Gasoline Speeders Crushed to Death In Pile-up of Cars.

IMPERIAL, Cal., March 5—(AP)—The last checkered flag has dropped for Ernie Triplett, the "blonde terror" of the race tracks.

Entered in a special event at the Imperial, Mid-way fair yesterday Triplett was injured fatally in a pile-up of racing cars which brought death to two other men.

George "Swede" Smith, 35-year-old veteran of Portland, Ore., died as his racer crashed into Jimmy Wilkeson's stalled car on a turn.

"Hap" Happerly, Hollywood mechanic, ran across the track to extricate him from the wreckage and was killed by Triplett's speeding machine.

Roaring into the turn abreast of his greatest rival, Al Gordon, the "blonde terror" swerved his machine in a futile attempt to avoid striking the mechanic.

Rockets Into Fence.

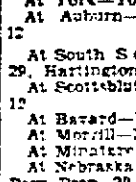

Triplett's car rocketed into the fence, ricochetted, grazed Gordon's racer and then hurtled into the air, catapulting the driver clear.

Gordon's machine plowed into the fence. Both he and Wilkeson escaped with minor injuries.

The 27-year-old Triplett ruled the coast speedways in 1931 and 1932, also winning the Indianapolis classic for 500 miles in the latter year.

Officials halted the race, awarding places on position. First place went to Gordon, while Triplett was awarded second place — his last prize.

Basketball teams of the Big Ten have their own scouts, just as the football teams. All major opponents are carefully watched before they are encountered.

Mild Winter Proved Great Aid In Relief To Nebraska Jobless

The remarkably open winter in Nebraska has greatly helped the relief and unemployment situation in two ways, State Relief Director Randall Biart said.

Weather conditions, he pointed out, were such as to permit continuance of civil works activities, including a considerable amount of highway and street work, practically all winter, thus providing constant employment and steady wages for thousands of persons and comfortable subsistence for their families.

At the same time, suffering and distress among needy families were minimized by the balmy climate which prevailed, and expenses of relief administration in providing necessities were less than they otherwise would have been.

"In a normal winter season we might easily have paid out $100,000 more for fuel alone than we did," Biart declared.

Fifth Anniversary Is Celebrated By Calvary Lutheran

Members of Calvary Lutheran church celebrated the fifth anniversary of the church with special services on Sunday. Rev. Alfred Saeger of Malcolm, Neb., was the principal speaker. His subject was, "Calvary—Then and Now."

Taking for his text the narrative of the crucifixion of Christ on the hill of Calvary, Rev. Saeger declared that the need of the present-day church was for more humane spirit among its members.

Following the service, an informal reception was held in the basement of the church. A five-layer birthday cake, each layer symbolical of one year of the church, was served. Mrs. August Mischnick and Mrs. Roy Gans had charge of the arrangements for the reception.

Music was furnished by the church choir.

Rev. Arthur Klinck, pastor and organizer of the church, had charge of the services.

Funeral Services For Mrs. Boldebuck To Be Held Wednesday

Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Boldebuck, 82, Lancaster county resident since 1886, who died at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Charles Jappert, 821 Washington street, will be held at Garland Lutheran church at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Tobias Joeckel will officiate and interment will be at Malcolm Lutheran cemetery.

Mrs. Boldebuck had been in Lincoln for the past two months. She first came to the county in 1886 from Dowlers Grove, Ill., where she had lived since 1869, when she came from Germany.

Beside Mrs. Jappert, Mrs. Boldebuck is survived by two other daughters, Mrs. Emma P. Baeder and Mrs. Mathilda Rosenstock of Lincoln; five sons, George and Adolph of Lincoln, William and Louis of Malcolm, and Herman of Emerald; a sister, Mrs. Wilhelmina Boldebuck of Malcolm; twenty grandchildren; and two great grandchildren.

The body is at Brown's mortuary and will be taken to the home at Garland Tuesday.

Vance Thomas Tells Plans For Reducing County CWA Forces

Plans for the gradual tapering-off the CWA workers in Lancaster county were explained by Vance Thomas, county re-employment director, at a meeting of timekeepers, foremen, and supervisors Sunday morning. Herman Jobst, county CWA director, called the meeting.

According to Mr. Thomas, foremen will have the right to designate the men they wished left on the jobs when orders are given for a reduction in numbers. These names, he explained, will be turned over to his office, which will check them against the relief lists and the unemployment office lists to see whether or not the men used need the work. He declared that no favoritism would be shown.

Miss Lucile Taylor of Boone county, Kentucky, thinks she set some sort of record last year when she canned 506 quarts of home-grown fruits and vegetables.

Employment for 500 Men at Once!

A REVOLUTIONARY Chemical Sponge has just been invented that cleans wallpaper and painted walls like magic. Also cleans window shades, upholstered furniture, rugs, without work. Ends cleaning drudgery. Housewives wild about it. Approved by Good Housekeeping Institute.

GIVE THAT COLD JUST ONE DAY!

Rout It Overnight!

A cold that hangs on is a cold to fear! Serious complications are possible. Daily with no cold, but treat it promptly and for what it is—an internal infection. Employ internal treatment and one that is strictly for colds and not for a lot of other things as well.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is what a cold requires. It is expressly a cold remedy. It is internal and direct. It is complete in effect. It does the four things necessary.

It opens the bowels, gently but thoroughly. It combats the cold germs in the system and reduces the fever. It relieves the headache and grippy feeling. It tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack. Anything less than that is courting danger.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is absolutely safe to take. For more than forty years it has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Every druggist sells Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine, 30c and 50c. Druggists who put your interest above a few pennies extra profit won't try to sell you a substitute.

Don't wait until a cold has taken over your system, but at the first sneeze or chill go right to your druggist for Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. Always ask for it by the full name and look for the letters L B Q stamped on every tablet.—Advertisement.

Mild Winter Proved Great Aid In Relief To Nebraska Jobless

The remarkably open winter in Nebraska has greatly helped the relief and unemployment situation in two ways, State Relief Director Randall Biart said.

Weather conditions, he pointed out, were such as to permit continuance of civil works activities, including a considerable amount of highway and street work, practically all winter, thus providing constant employment and steady wages for thousands of persons and comfortable subsistence for their families.

At the same time, suffering and distress among needy families were minimized by the balmy climate which prevailed, and expenses of relief administration in providing necessities were less than they otherwise would have been.

"In a normal winter season we might easily have paid out $100,000 more for fuel alone than we did," Biart declared.

Fifth Anniversary Is Celebrated By Calvary Lutheran

Members of Calvary Lutheran church celebrated the fifth anniversary of the church with special services on Sunday. Rev. Alfred Saeger of Malcolm, Neb., was the principal speaker. His subject was, "Calvary—Then and Now."

Taking for his text the narrative of the crucifixion of Christ on the hill of Calvary, Rev. Saeger declared that the need of the present-day church was for more humane spirit among its members.

Following the service, an informal reception was held in the basement of the church. A five-layer birthday cake, each layer symbolical of one year of the church, was served. Mrs. August Mischnick and Mrs. Roy Gans had charge of the arrangements for the reception.

Music was furnished by the church choir.

Rev. Arthur Klinck, pastor and organizer of the church, had charge of the services.

Funeral Services For Mrs. Boldebuck To Be Held Wednesday

Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Boldebuck, 82, Lancaster county resident since 1886, who died at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Charles Jappert, 821 Washington street, will be held at Garland Lutheran church at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Tobias Joeckel will officiate and interment will be at Malcolm Lutheran cemetery.

Mrs. Boldebuck had been in Lincoln for the past two months. She first came to the county in 1886 from Dowlers Grove, Ill., where she had lived since 1869, when she came from Germany.

Beside Mrs. Jappert, Mrs. Boldebuck is survived by two other daughters, Mrs. Emma P. Baeder and Mrs. Mathilda Rosenstock of Lincoln; five sons, George and Adolph of Lincoln, William and Louis of Malcolm, and Herman of Emerald; a sister, Mrs. Wilhelmina Boldebuck of Malcolm; twenty grandchildren; and two great grandchildren.

The body is at Brown's mortuary and will be taken to the home at Garland Tuesday.

Vance Thomas Tells Plans For Reducing County CWA Forces

Plans for the gradual tapering-off the CWA workers in Lancaster county were explained by Vance Thomas, county re-employment director, at a meeting of timekeepers, foremen, and supervisors Sunday morning. Herman Jobst, county CWA director, called the meeting.

According to Mr. Thomas, foremen will have the right to designate the men they wished left on the jobs when orders are given for a reduction in numbers. These names, he explained, will be turned over to his office, which will check them against the relief lists and the unemployment office lists to see whether or not the men used need the work. He declared that no favoritism would be shown.

Miss Lucile Taylor of Boone county, Kentucky, thinks she set some sort of record last year when she canned 506 quarts of home-grown fruits and vegetables.

Employment for 500 Men at Once!

A REVOLUTIONARY Chemical Sponge has just been invented that cleans wallpaper and painted walls like magic. Also cleans window shades, upholstered furniture, rugs, without work. Ends cleaning drudgery. Housewives wild about it. Approved by Good Housekeeping Institute.

Equities Mull About In Trendless Range Throughout Dullest Session Since Early January

Exchange Closing Tone Is Irregular

Traders Spend Most of Their Time Studying President's Speech.

NEW YORK, March 5—(AP)— Stock traders spent most of their time today studying the president's NRA address at Washington and equities mulled about in a trendless range throughout the dullest session since early last January. A few of the tobaccos and metals improved, but the close was irregular. Transfers approximated 950,000 shares.

Trading in the financial markets was virtually at a standstill for a time today as Wall street attempted to interpret the president's NRA address at Washington.

Proceedings on the stock exchange were the dullest in some months. While a few leading shares exhibited a rather heavy tone, there was no volume to accentuate the decline. Grains, cotton and other commodities emulated the diffidence of equities. Dollar rates were almost unchanged. Bonds were fairly steady.

Some of the tobacco and alcohol stocks, including American Tobacco B, Liggett & Myers B, American Commercial Alcohol and National Distillers recorded small gains. Auburn got up 2 points. Issues down fractions to a point or more included American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Du Pont, Johns-Manville, American Smelting, U. S. Smelting, J. C. Penney, Westinghouse, Western Union, Consolidated Gas, General Electric, General Motors, United Aircraft, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and N. Y. Central.

Of principal interest to speculative forces was the Roosevelt challenge to industry to raise wages and further reduce hours in order to increase jobs and lift from the government the task of furnishing re-employment.

Although it was felt in some quarters that higher pay and shorter hours would, at least temporarily, cut corporation profits substantially, there was also a disposition to consider the longer-term aspects of the problem with some degree of optimism.

The president's thought that "no one opposes reasonable profits for business and industry" was in line with previous expressions from the white house. At the same time much attentoin was paid to the executive's comment that the country is still in the stage where the profit motive must take into account the fact that thousands are still unemployed. In the long run, he pointed out, profits will depend on getting the idle back to work.

Market analysts read with mixed feelings the other portions of the presidential speech which included a condemnation of unjustified price increases under the NRA codes, a renewed request that consumers buy under the blue eagle, a plea for continued and better protection for small industries, a demand for freedom for labor to organize unhampered by employers' domination and a warning that the NRA act would be enforced with a firmer hand.

Publication of the names of those who sold aviation stocks for both long and short account just prior to the recent break in these issues following cancellation of airmail contracts apparently had little effect on prices. Some interest was shown in the announcement that the senate committee had ordered Counsel Pecora to investigate short holdings in the aviation group with the view of determining if fictitious accounts were used by public officials.

Business and industrial improvement, while affected somewhat by recent weather conditions and other factors, continued to impress financial observers.

The magazine "Steel" reported that, while the country's steel operations moved up only 1 point to 48 per cent of capacity during the past week, this rate compared with 15 per cent a year ago when the nation was heading into the banking holidays. Tin plate mill activity rose 10 points to 80 per cent of capacity.

The review found that labor difficulties in the automotive field seemed to be less of a disturbing element and that motor manufacturers were increasing production. At the same time, it was pointed out, extension of steel prices for the second quarter removed the incentive to stock material.

Further evidence of betterment in the banking sector was seen in the announcement of the controller of the currency that assets of national banks on Dec. 30, last, were around $550,000,000 higher than on Oct. 25 and were about $887,000,000 above the total of the preceding June. While deposits recorded sharp increases, loans and discounts were both under the figures for June and October.

In early dealings the British pound was off ⅜ of a cent at $5.07¼ and French francs were unchanged at 6.58 cents.

Wheat Prices Easy to Lower

Close Is Unchanged to ½c Down; Corn Declines ⅛-¼c.

CHICAGO, March 5—(AP)— In the absence of anything in President Roosevelt's NRA address today that seemed to apply directly to grain markets, wheat and other cereals underwent downturns.

A decrease of 2,575,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply total was of some effect toward imparting comparative firmness to prices toward the last. Today's reduction of the visible supply left the total supply at the lowest level since July 1929.

Washington announcement of Supreme court refusal to review the court's decision against suspension of Chicago board of trade came too late to be a market factor.

Wheat closed easy, at the same as Saturday's finish to ½ cent lower, May 87⅞-⅞c, July, 86⅞-87c; corn ⅛-¼c down, May 51¾c, July 53⅝c; oats ⅜-½c down, and provisions unchanged to 7 cents decline.

Sagging of prices characterized grain markets early today. Dealings lacked volume, with traders holding off while awaiting reports of an address by President Roosevelt. Opening unchanged to ⅜c lower, May 87⅝-¾c, wheat later showed an all around decline. Corn started ⅛-¼c down, and subsequently altered little.

Wheat values rallied a bit during the president's speech, and in some cases went slightly above Saturday's finish. Before he had closed however, the market had reacted, and went lower than before his talk was begun. Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat. There was no perceptible increase of business in any of the grain pits, and the majority of brokers stood listless.

Downturns of wheat quotations at this stage kept within fractional limits, amounting at the extreme to but ¾ cent a bushel. Helping to give relative steadiness to the market were reports showing that receipts of wheat at domestic primary points last week amounted to only 37.5 per cent of the average receipts for the corresponding week of the past ten years. Similar scantiness of corn and oats receipts were also shown.

Provision prices climbed with cereals.

Wheat futures purchases Saturday totaled 10,864,000 bushels, and corn 2,208,000.

About midsession, wheat was ¼ to ½c under Saturday's finish, and corn was ⅛ to ¼c down.

Corn receipts in Chicago today totaled 107 cars, a week ago 152, and a year ago 97.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW.

NEW YORK, March 5—(AP)— A few sections of the bond list reflected a more active trading interest today and quotations were steady to firm all along the line.

During the first hour there was some desire among traders to mark time pending the disclosure of President Roosevelt's views on the NRA situation, expressed before a meeting of NRA code authorities in Washington.

Despite this factor, prices pushed ahead moderately in some of the more active low prices groups. Prime ratings in the corporate division were firm and U. S. governments were mostly higher in a small market.

Improvement ranging from fractions to more than a point featured Great Northern 4½s, Northern Pacific 4s, Pennsylvania General 4½s, Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, Detroit Edison 4½s, Kansas Gas & Electric 4½s, Chile Copper, 5s, Goodyear. 5s, Standard Oil of New York 4½s, and North American 5s.

Thin market continued to rule in a few industrial and rail classifications in consequence of which prices dropped fractions or more under light offerings. National Dairy 5¼s and Southern Pacific 4½s, thus affected, yielded about half a point each.

The U. S. governments early transfers in treasury 4¼-3¼s resulted in a gain of 4-32s of a point. Treasury 3s were a shade better, while the rest of the list held close to the previous finals.

The foreign divisions had an uneven trend with the best action supplied during the early trading by French 1s, up 1⅜ and Poland 7s, up ⅝ of a point. Belgian and German issues were generally off a little.

NEW YORK CURB REVIEW.

NEW YORK, March 5—(AP)— Irregular price tendencies prevailed on the curb exchange today in moderate trading. Many of the leading oil, industrial, alcohol and metal shares sold off fractionally, but inactive specialties and a few others advanced.

Aluminum company, Hiram Walker, A. O. Smith, and Parker Rust Proof lost nearly a point in a fairly large turnover, and smaller declines occurred in such issues as American Gas, Canadian Industrial Alcohol, Electric Bond & Share, Natomas Co., Swift & Co., Wright Hargreaves, Lake Shore Mines, Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Newmont Mining.

Duke Power, an active issue, was bid up about 5 points on small sales, and Montgomery Ward "A" advanced 2, Northern States Power "A" improved more than two points and Trunz Pork Stores advanced about 3. A number of other issues improved small fractions to nearly a point including Bunker Hill & Sullivan and Distillers Corporation Seagrams.

The oil shares moved narrowly in a thin market. Small advances and declines were about evenly divided in this group which has been somewhat inactive for several days, and a number of issues, including Standard Oil of Indiana showed no change in price.

GRAIN NOTES

CHICAGO, March 5—(AP)—With market trends uncertain, traders awaited something that would put new life into operations after prolonged dullness. Developments which in past years would definitely influence the market have had little effect recently. The supply and demand situation is no longer regarded as an important factor and news from Washington has caused sharp price breaks and bulges. Wheat traders complained that operations were unprofitable during the last two months because of the narrow price range.

The possibility that stocks of corn will be considerably smaller later in the season has started to draw the attention of traders. A shortage in the supply of oats and other feedstuffs was reported to have caused a steady drain on corn stocks. The amount of corn sealed in cribs by farmers who have signed government loan contracts has been estimated at 150,000,000 bushels. The visible supply, operatives believed, will show a big reduction when lake navigation is resumed in the spring, as stocks of grain shipped to eastern ports before the close of the navigation season last fall were reported to have been reduced rapidly.

A local statistician estimated that the May delivery of corn in Chicago would have to advance 80 cents before a selling movement would be started by persons who borrowed money on the grain from the government. The estimate was based on an average price of 33 to 35 cents a bushel paid to farmers for corn in Iowa, Nebraska and Minnesota, or 10 to 12 cents less than the loan contract price paid by the government.

Cochran Takes Bids To Omaha For Study By Federal Engineer

State Engineer Roy Cochran planned to go to Omaha Monday afternoon to confer with Federal District Engineer Clifford Shoemaker on awarding of contracts to low bidders at last week's letting, involving about $800,000 of federal emergency highway work. Cochran said Shoemaker has not yet inspected the bids.

Of Nebraska's $7,828,961 federal emergency highway allotment made last summer, only $151,310 remains to be put to work, Cochran said. Of the big sum, $6,455,354 has been obligated, and bids have been received and contracts are pending on $1,-222,296 of work. This sum includes the funds set aside for the projects in last week's letting.

The $151,310 remaining in the state's highway allotment must be spent within municipalities, since it is an unassigned balance in the 25 per cent of the appropriation set aside for work within municipalities.

North Platte Woman And Baby Sent Home After Night in Cell

A 22 year old mother and her 5-months old daughter were homeward bound for North Platte Monday after spending Sunday night at the city jail.

The mother and child were taken to police hearquarters after the landlady of a P street lodging house said a bedspread valued at $7.50 was missing. The mother denied any knowledge of the theft and police could not find the spread among her belongings.

The woman told officers that she came to Lincoln Saturday by automobile with her husband and another couple. Because of the crowded condition of the small car, she decided to return to North Platte by train while the other three drove.

After the trio had departed Sunday morning the landlady made the complaint to officers and the mother was brought to police headquarters.

Rex II, Iowa Mascot Who Broke Loose When Here, Freed From Jail

IOWA CITY, March 5—(AP)—Rex II, Great Dane mascot of the University of Iowa football team, was free today after spending part of the night behind the bars in the Iowa City jail for attempting to enter a dwelling forcibly.

The dog was liberated when two members of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity where he lives, promised to repair damages and wash the police car.

Police arrested Rex last night when he tried to break into the home of Edwin A. Hay.

Broke Loose Here.

During a short stay in Lincoln last November, when he accompanied the Iowa football team here for its game with the Cornhuskers, Rex II was likewise a cause of concern. At that time he escaped from a basement window of the Nebraska chapter of the Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity and members of the police force, the fraternity, and the Iowa R. O. T. C band scoured the city before they finally found him wandering unconcernedly down O street.

Rohn Undecided On Race For Governor

Mayor John F. Rohn of Fremont has his hat in his hand, but he is still debating whether to put it back on his head or toss it into the ring and file as a candidate in the democratic gubernatorial primary. That, roughly, was Rohn's reply to questions put to him Monday while in Lincoln with a delegation of Fremont men in connection with highway matters.

The Fremont delegation called on State Engineer Roy Cochran to urge some changes in the project to re-route U. S. 30, south, through Fremont. Bids were asked on the project last week, but contracts have not been let. Rohn said the re-routing called for at present entails purchase of considerble right-of-way and widening of one street for three blocks, whereas changes desired by Fremont business men would obviate acquisition of right-of-way and all street widening activities.

Four Mentioned As Possible Successors To Late Judge Begley

Appointment of some democratic attorney who has been fairly close to the Bryan state administration as successor to the late Judge James T. Begley of Plattsmouth, who died suddenly on Sunday, is looked for at the capitol. Governor Bryan, as is his usual custom, will postpone action in filling the vacancy until after obsequies for the late incumbent have been held.

Among the lawyers mentioned for the place are: D. O. Dwyer, Plattsmouth; County Attorney W. G. Kieck, Plattsmouth; D. W. Livingston, Nebraska City, now an attorney for the federal home loan corporation; and O. G. Leidigh, Nebraska City.

The second judicial district, in which the vacancy exists, includes Cass, Otoe, and Sarpy counties.

F. C. Radke, chief counsel for the state banking department, spent all day Saturday at Plattsmouth and took part in one or two arguments in bank cases before Judge Begley, who seemed at that time to be in the best of health. One of the judge's last acts on the bench was to order the issuance of a sheriff's deed for the old farm home of former Governor George L. Sheldon, near Nehawka, sold to satisfy indebtedness.

Two Denver Men Hurt In Collision On West P Street Span Monday

E. H. Garrett, 33, and Martin C. Keul, 30, Denver salesmen, were in St. Elizabeth's hospital Monday as a result of injuries suffered in a collision on the West P street Salt creek bridge at 3:50 o'clock Monday morning.

The car in which the two men were riding collided with a machine driven by J. T. Pollard, 33, of York. Pollard suffered head bruises and was released from the hospital after emergency treatment. Garrett had a cut lip and Keul's leg was broken. They were attended by Dr. George Lewis.

Silva Suffers Face Cuts When Struck On Head With Bottle

Filiciciano Silva, 530 South First street, received face wounds requiring six stitches at 2 o'clock Sunday mornig when he was struck in the head by a bottle, allegedly hurled by Vernon Howard, colored, 116 L street, who was arrested an hour after. Silva, now at St. Elizabeth's hospital, told police he planned to file assault charges.

According to the story which Silva related to police, a colored man came out of a house near First and L streets and hit him in the face with the bottle. He said he did not know how the fight started.

About People

A meeting of the First Henry George club will be held Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock in room 105, social science building at the university campus.

Paul Bogott, Lincoln, was elected chairman of the state assembly committee of the Y. M. C. A., at a meeting held in Hastings Sunday. Dr. Elmer J. Sterling of Hastings college addressed the meeting on "The Young Man and His Environment." Wayne Batterson, Hastings, was elected vice-chairman and Alex Longacre, Fremont, was named secretary. Lincoln delegates present at the meeting included Henry J. Baker, John Hollingworth, Paul Bogott, Frank Holmes and A. E. Wolf.

Inmate Escapes

No trace had been found Monday morning of Marjorie Lemon, 40, who escaped from the state hospital at 7:30 Sunday evening. Officials there said that as far as they could determine she was clad only in a dress. A check at the homes of relatives living here revealed that she had not gone to any of their homes.

SUIT DISMISSED

Suit of the Mona Motor Oil Co. of Council Bluffs, Ia., to enjoin the state of Nebraska from collecting alleged due gasoline taxes was dismissed in Federal court here Monday. The state and the company reached a settlement of the claim since the suit was filed.

279 MILLIONS IS ASKED FOR ARMY

House Committee Report Sternly Raps Procurement of Planes

Supply Bill Provides for 12,000 Officers and 118,000 Men.

WASHINGTON, March 5—(AP)—In language almost as hard boiled as that used by a grizzled drill sergeant, a $279,541,000 war department appropriation bill today was reported to the house.

It would provide for maintenance of an army of 12,000 officers and 118,750 enlisted men during the fiscal year 1935.

As the outgrowth of a controversy over army airplane buying it provided $15,000 to fill the vacant post of assistant secretary for air.

The report, accompanying the bill, drafted by an appropriation subcommittee headed by Representative Collins, democrat, Mississippi, directly questioned whether the $93,000,000 allotted for military purposes by the PWA and the $22,000,000 from the CWA were expended on projects "most needful from a national defense standpoint."

Raps Plane Purchases.

The sternly worded report also rapped at the army's procurement of airplanes. Collins wrote that the committee "has not been unmindful of the recently alleged irregularities respecting airplane procurements actually made and projected, as well as other classes of procurement."

The bill carries $22,591,000 for the air service in the coming fiscal year, in addition to the PWA allotment of $7,500,000 for new aircraft.

As reported, the measure is $3,090,000 less than the budget estimates of $282,632,000.

The $279,541,000 total is $69,981,000 below the appropriations for the current year, which amounted to $349,523,000.

Appropriating $26,621,000 for the national guard, or $8,999,000 less than for the current year, due to PWA allocations, the committee nevertheless provided for an increase from 36 to 42 armory drills for the coming year.

The bill also provides for the closing down of Fitzsimmons hospital near Denver.

U. S. DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE WEATHER BUREAU

CHARLES F. MARVIN, Chief

OCLEAR, ◐PARTLY CLOUDY, ●CLOUDY, ®RAIN, ⓈSNOW, ⓂREPORT MISSING.

Observations taken at 7 a. m. Air pressure reduced to sea level and line drawn through points of equal pressure. Arrows fly with the wind.

THE WEATHER.

Warm and cloudy weather prevails throughout the eastern half of the country under the influence of a depression now centered over Lake Superior and light rain has fallen from the upper Mississippi valley eastward to the Atlantic coast. Warm weather also prevails in the western half of the country except for a small area in the southwest and some rain or snow has fallen in the mountain region. Moderately high pressure appears in western Canada with temperature about normal.

Blond Goddess

A New Serial By HERBERT JENSEN

SYNOPSIS: Frank Grahame, the explorer, and Janice Kent, movie star, fall into a mysterious valley while escaping from a band of murderous savages in the interior of Yucatan. They cannot get out of the valley, and to their horror they find the high priest of the tribe is imprisoned with them. To cap the climax, they find Bill Langton also, and Langton is the aviator friend of Grahame who has been missing many months.

Chapter 39.
LANGTON'S STORY.

Janice exclaimed in a choked voice, "He's hurt, Frank, oh, he's hurt!"

Langton muttered, "That happened weeks ago. I'm all right now. I got cracked up badly trying to get out of this valley A line I'd made broke when I was halfway up the cliff. . . . Getting food was pretty hard for a few weeks. . . ."

Janice's eyes glistened. Langton smiled. "Don't feel sorry for me Miss Kent—wait 'til I show you my Crusoe bachelor quarters. I've got everything including running water. Too much running water, but I'm afraid not so many groceries as I'd like. . . ."

He chatted on, gayly, inconsequentially, as if he were admitting them to his house for an afternoon's visit. Frank could not take his eyes from the gangling emaciated figure.

The few rags of clothes he had were soiled and torn and hung from him like pitiful tatters on a scarecrow. He suggested that they walk to his camp.

He ambled ahead with a grotesque limp, swinging his stone-tipped bludgeon with what was almost an air of gay insouciance. The other arm stood out at a pitiful angle.

The afternoon sun dipped beyond the western cliffs as they reached Langton's fire. The high-priest lay as they had seen him earlier in the afternoon, face immobile, eyes hateful.

Frank experienced a little crawling of the muscles of his back as the ahkin's eyes rested upon him Helpless as the man was nevertheless his glance seemed to have substance.

Frank felt the malevolent impact of his gaze. The ahkin seemed to have a power for harm that was beyond the physical.

Langton poked the fire with a stick Several hours had passed since they had found him at their camp across the stream. After showing them his "Crusoe quarters" —the small shack that stood before the entrance to an extensive cave, he had pressed them with questions of the outside world.

His months out of civilization, he had said, seemed like so many years. Frank had gossiped steadily, and his news, supplemented by what Janice could tell, seemed to bring back the side of Billy Langton's nature—the impudent, reckless charm—that the world had thought lost forever to it.

Langton listened with the complete absorption of a child with a fairy tale.

Once with a vast penitence he interrupted to ask them if they were hungry. He barely waited for their answer, but disappeared into the cave and brought out a woven basket of dried venison.

Janice and Frank ate ravenously. The ahkin, when it was offered to him waved his hand negatively, almost contemptuously. Nor did Langton eat any.

"He's like I am, "Langton grinned. "I'm so sick of the stuff myself I'd rather eat a bucket of spinach . . . if I had a bucket of spinach."

Frank glanced at him suspiciously. "Is that all you have?" He pointed at the basket.

Langton chuckled behind his blond beard. "I get you. But you're wrong this time. . . There's more in the cave. And more running around loose in the jungle.

"This place is sort of a wild game trap. Animals that don't fall off the cliffs float down the stream and land here. They can't get out." He stared with impassive reflection into the fire.

"I've done as well for food as could be expected. I've had enough, anyway. I made a rope of vines and cactus fiber. With it I could trap a deer when I wanted.

"I've even caught a turkey or two, and managed to net fish. The fish weren't very good. The trouble was—" Langton made a grimace. "—that the rope finally got me in trouble.

"I made a long one, tied a rock to it and practiced slinging it. I got so I could throw it quite a distance. It occurred to me that if I could sling it up over the lip of the cliff it might catch on something and I could haul myself up by it.

"I tried it. After a while it fastened on something—I thought stoutly—and after testing it by climbing ten feet or so I decided to risk the entire climb. Well . . . it let me down. . . ."

He pointed to his maimed arm. "I broke that, and dislocated my hip. I crawled back here. It was pretty bad for a while. I had some food but I couldn't hunt—I guess for weeks." He grinned again. "But my appetite wasn't what you'd call hearty, and I got by all right."

"What did you do for fire?" asked Janice.

"That was the least of my worries. I found a wood that burns forever. I think. The natives used it back in the city, and I had a few matches."

They sat and talked late into the night. The mosquitoes did not bother them. Langton claimed that it was because there was good drainage into a swiftly flowing stream, and therefore there could be no breeding places.

Langton's story was that he had been blown out of his course by the hurricane and sighted no place to land until to his amazement he saw the great stone-slabbed clearing near the pyramid.

Not only could he land there but it appeared designed for a later take-off. He had, then, no hesitation in landing.

"I'd been spoiled, I guess," he went on with a hint of apology in his smile. "When the natives surrounded me I thought that they composed a sort of jungle reception committee. They seemed to know who I was, too.

"I used to read stories about these people down here who made gods of blond men—you know lots of those old Spaniards were blond, which was one of the reasons they got by so well in the old days.

"Even when they came they found the natives had blond-gods-from-the-east-legends. The Spaniards took advantage of those legends.

"Maybe I thought I might do the same for a little while. I'm kid enough, I guess, to try feeling how it is to be a king. Yep," he continued. "I tried, but I didn't get away with it. I met the ahkin here in a day or two and I began to wish that hurricane had blown me somewhere else.

"The high-priest isn't a bad sort, really I think he's a remarkable fellow He doesn't speak English—only Spanish—yes, that's right, just Spanish and his own language, but he can read your mind like a book.

"Don't tell me you don't believe in telepathy, Frank—this boy can give you some startling exhibition. Either that or he's a twin brother to Herman the Great. Anyway we got along fine when I'd ask him questions that he could answer with a yes or a no in Spanish—I know that much of the language, anyway.

"We got along fine, I say, until I was taken to the top of the pyramid to witness one of their little sunrise performances. They'd dressed me up quite trickily.

"They killed a poor devil on the sacrifice stone . . . and a girl. I went a little haywire and in the fight came out second best.

"They put me in a stone room, and gave me to understand that my scrap on the pyramid top had elected me to take a more or less personal part in the next performance.

"They treated me all right though They gave me stuff from the ship, pop, chewing gum, and chocolate bars—" He grinned a little shamefacedly, "You know me, Frank. Frank used to tell me, Miss Kent, that all I needed on my crate was a peanut whistle to go into business.

"I wrote a note on a cablegram envelope, and scratched my story on the wall, high up. The envelope I put in a pop bottle and sealed it with chewing gum and a piece of rag from my shirt. When they took me to the pyramid top I carried the bottle with me.

"To cut a long story short, I tried to take the ahkin with me—not because I had anything personally against him, but he is a dangerous lunatic and with him out of the way the vital statistics of this ancient city would take quite a drop for the good."

U. S. Making Rapid Recovery Strides, Declares Bingham

LONDON, March 5—(AP)—Ambassador Robert W. Bingham has returned from his holiday in the United States more convinced than ever that America is making rapid strides toward recovery.

The improvement has been "incredible," the American ambassador said.

As evidence of the result of the recovery program, he pointed to increasing employment, growing railroad travel, greater expenditures on luxuries such as theaters, and bright earnings reports by corporations, which for a long time marked their books only in red.

President Roosevelt he pictured as in radiant health, working buoyantly and in the best of spirits.

Bingham returns to his ambassadorial duties with the British press, long highly critical of Mr. Roosevelt's plans, turning increasingly in the other direction.

UNI. PLACE ASKS VOTE ON MOVIES

Referendum Favored In Canvass Taken At Three Churches.

University Place churches Sunday expressed themselves in favor of delaying licensing of moving pictures. Votes were taken on a resolution, asking the city council to postpone granting of a license and calling for a referendum, was presented at the First M. E. church, the Warren M. E. church and the Fourth Presbyterian church.

In every case, pastors reported that sentiment was not so much against moving pictures as the type of movie that might be shown. There was also an opinion prevalent that sufficient capital could not be interested to give University Place a desirable moving picture house.

At the First M. E. church, where the resolution originated in the Sunday school, Rev. W. E. Lowther said, "Our action was an expression of sentiment rather than a vote. Out of a congregation of between 900 and 1,000, from 200 to 300 members favored the resolution. It was not so much a vote against movies as against putting in a junky little place with no provision for proper censorship."

Rev. W. F. Perry of the Fourth Presbyterian church said, "We talked it over and the older people were for the resolution and the young people against it. We couldn't expect to have much of a moving picture house here and we probably couldn't rely on it. I think it would be all right to have movies here if we could get the right type of picture. A good majority were in favor of the resolution."

At Warren M. E., Rev. W. L. Ruyle stated that a vote was taken Sunday evening. "We are not opposed to movies," Rev. Ruyle said, "but we want the proper type. We want an opportunity to settle the question by referendum and provide for proper control. We want the right type of movie but under the present proposal we have no assurance of this."

In all three churches, it was reported that the younger members favored movies but the older members were opposed.

It isn't an assassination, however, if the killer is an important guy and the victim a nobody.

Minerva's Mail

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES TO MINERVA

Romance Picking Up.

The world is a barren place for women when love grows stale. One of the most depressing things about the depression is the effect that the financial paralysis has had upon love—particularly, upon the man's interest in making the right proposal to the right woman, to be followed by wedding bells.

One of the most encouraging things about the gradual up-grade climb of things financial is the report that the marriage crop is again flourishing.

When a man is down and out financially, or even when he is at an economic standstill, his thoughts do not turn progressively toward plans for a wedding and establishing a home. It takes money as well as love to make the world go round.

So the women have been pretty unhappy over the situation. The men haven't been happy, either, but business interests, even if these took the worry form, kept them from brooding over their lack of interest in romance. But the women have felt pretty helpless and life was bleak and drab. The men didn't even go a-dating as in the past, though the girls tried to make them understand that they wanted and needed masculine company and were glad enough to forego the customary theaters and dances.

Many a girl believed that she had landed her man, that he loved her and wanted to marry her, but still he didn't come across with the proposal. She knew he was worried about money, but she did wish he would propose anyway, and let her worry with him. But he didn't.

But now, many of these men are seeing light ahead. And the result is a new interest in love and marriage. Merchants say that the valentine business this year was exceptionally heavy. And the marriage license bureaus all over the country report a decided pick-up in business.

Sense of Humor.

Dear Minerva: I've read your discussions on personality so many times. They are wonderful. But there is still one angle I wish you would discuss, just for me. Will you?

It is this—How does a person acquire a sense of humor? I was born without one. And when I do try to answer someone's wisecracks, I find that people take it as sarcasm and get mad at me.

People like my appearance. They are always attracted until they know me. Then they just drop off, don't dance with me any more and barely speak. I've tried so hard to follow your advice and be interested in boys. It didn't seem to help much. I can laugh and be happy, but I can't express myself with the cute remarks other girls make. You see, I'm just naturally serious-minded. There's no humor there. People have ridiculed the things I say so often that I just don't say them any more.

And it hurts, to have people admire me until they know me personally. I'm no nit-wit, and my ideals are as high and as true as anyone's.

You say to be just yourself. Well—I'm just naturally quiet—I can't even carry on ordinary conversations. I love to hear other people talk, but they won't talk to me, much as I question them.

You understand people so well—I know you have read enough by this time. Won't you please tell me how to develop a sense of humor. And what to say to people when they make even ordinary remarks.

I love to be in a crowd of people who are dancing, with wonderful music, and laughter and gayety. I detest being the center of attention, but I don't want to not dance and be a wallflower. Thanking you for your suggestions, Sincerely, A TROUBLED GIRL.

A. A sense of humor is, after all, a comparative thing. That which seems uproariously funny to one person is merely silly to another. Husbands are wont to think that their wives are totally devoid of the gift of a sense of humor, while many wives think their husbands are complete flops as laugh-producers, where as outsiders think the wives unusually quick at catching a joke and the husbands are most successful entertainers.

You can't very well go around laughing at everything that is supposed to be funny, without being insincere and wearing a set, forced grin. There's nothing lovely about that.

Nor can you adapt your style of repartee to that of everyone else. But this, you can do. You can be gracious and cordial, and adapt yourself to your surroundings. If you are not a wisecracker (and there's nothing to weep about if you're not), then don't attempt a come-back when the quips are being tossed back and forth. But enter into the spirit of the hilarity, and appreciate, and show that you do, the general fun-making spirit of the occasion. Loosen up and laugh, because laughter is in the air.

You can do this, if you think less of yourself.

Your malady is not so much that you lack a sense of humor as it is that you take yourself too seriously. "People have ridiculed the things I say so often, I just don't say them any more," you say. Your first lesson is to be able to laugh at yourself. When others laugh at you, laugh with them. You are serious-minded. If they find that funny, all right, make stock of it, and entertain them with your serious-minded comments.

We all love to laugh. The serious-minded person whose literal interpretation of light remarks, sends others into gales of laughter, is a mighty popular person if she is good sport enough to enjoy this laughter. It isn't malicious; it is merely amusement at someone who is different and unexpected. Don't try to be anything but yourself, but don't be ashamed of yourself. Regard your own temperament and reactions as assets, and so they will be.

Answered Briefly.

Hopeful: Don't do anything hastily. You couldn't endure it if your husband's present mood became a permanent thing. But, as you say, he is given to moods and "sprees." You seem to have compromised with his temperament pretty well in the past. I believe you would find greater satisfaction in continuing to do so. He is a good home-maker, and with the exception of certain moody periods, is a good husband. Your children are so very small, and they need a home, a father, and the security of a well-organized home, if you can possibly give it to them. I know that the temptation to get out and try to find love that is more satisfying seems to be your right, and at your age, a possibility. But, it's a serious gamble, and it isn't fair to the children. It's a much more worth-while and satisfactory project to try to overlook your husband's moods and enjoy him when he is enjoyable.

Frances: Group number three sounds like a normal, likeable group of friends for you to associate with. The other groups, open for your friendship selection, which you describe as groups number one and two, likewise sound very nice, but a bit more extreme, not so well balanced. I cannot see why you cling to your present group of intimates, when you so thoroughly disapprove of everything they do. That's very bad for you, for you are certain to develop into a resentful, defiant young person under such environment. Go out for the activities you truly like, and the friends you admire. That is a type of boldness that pays.
